

Laird Notes Course Change By Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is some sign that Soviet ships heading for North Vietnam have changed direction since President Nixon ordered North Vietnamese harbors sealed off by mines, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today.

At the same time, he said the U.S. troop withdrawal program will continue during the new military action in Vietnam.

Laird made a brief reference, in a news conference, to the Soviet ships' changing direction when he was asked about the effects so far of President Nixon's Monday announcement of the mine sowing.

He also said there is no evidence the Soviets have tried to sweep the mines from the harbor entrances.

In noting "there is some evidence of some change of course" by Soviet ships, Laird said there is still a full period of daylight before the mines will be activated.

According to Laird, 36 ships are in the main North Vietnamese harbor of Haiphong—16 of them Soviet vessels, 5 belonging to China, four British and the others from various Communist nations.

So far, Laird said, Moscow has not responded officially to the President's ordering of the harbor mining and the interdiction of rail, road and water supplies.

The Defense secretary indicated as well the United States will not allow the mines to be removed and will do all possible to keep the harbors closed.

Laird also gave a comparatively optimistic outlook of the war. He said the South Vietnamese are holding fast.

Laird added that the United States will take "all steps necessary" to keep the harbors closed by mines.

He denied the closure is a blockade in the international legal sense.

But he made it clear we "will not permit the landing of supplies in North Vietnam."

Many of these supplies have been coming from Russia.

Laird generally attempted to give an optimistic outlook on the current situation, which heated up Monday night when President Nixon ordered the mining of the harbor entrances and the interdiction of other Soviet and Chinese supply routes to North Vietnam.

He said the U.S. troop withdrawal program will continue.

The U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams, "will meet or beat the 49,000 troop ceiling by July 1," the schedule set by the President.

Laird also criticized again the Soviet supplying of Hanoi, which he said had made the current invasion of the South possible.

He said the Soviet Union has not replied to the President's action and there is "no evidence" the Soviet's are trying to sweep mines from the harbor entrances.

Asked what the United States would do if Moscow should react, Laird answered:

"We will take all steps necessary to maintain a mining operation."

Increase in Air Activity Marks Viet War Scene

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes shot down seven enemy MIGs today while carrying out the deepest and heaviest air strikes inside North Vietnam in more than four years, the U.S. Command announced.

The downing of seven MIGs in one day is a record for the Vietnam war.

The U.S. aircraft attacked both Hanoi and Haiphong, while hitting at widespread areas of North Vietnam, the command said.

It made no mention of any U.S. air losses.

The aircraft streaked to within 60 miles of the Chinese border to attack North Vietnam's northwest rail link to China.

Radio Hanoi said 14 U.S. planes were shot down and "many pilots were captured alive."

U.S. disclosures of aircraft losses often are delayed if search and rescue operations are under way.

A 7th Fleet destroyer force also bombarded the Haiphong area.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said an armada of Air Force planes from bases in Thailand and Navy aircraft from three carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin attacked rail lines, bridges, repair shops, fuel depots, trucks, boats and supply distribution centers on orders from President Nixon.

The command said that "among the targets struck were rail and fuel storage sites in the vicinity of Hanoi and Haiphong."

A naval task force also bombarded North Vietnamese positions along the coastline, in addition to Haiphong, it was reported.

The announcement hinted that strikes would be kept up in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas.

"It is anticipated that air strikes and naval gunfire will continue to be used against military targets in North Vietnam to deny the enemy the weapons and supplies it needs to continue the attack."

This referred to the 42-day North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

A Hanoi dispatch of the Soviet news agency Tass said bombs fell on "a number of populated centers northwest of Hanoi."

The U.S. Command statement said only military and supply targets were hit.

"These strikes were made in pursuance of orders to reduce to the maximum extent possible the flow of military supplies in support of the massive Communist invasion across the DMZ," the command said.

"These actions are being taken to help protect the lives of remaining U.S. forces in South Vietnam and to help the Republic of Vietnam resist the aggression by the enemy."

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu proclaimed martial law throughout South Vietnam effective at midnight—noon EDT.

The nation has been under various forms of national emergency decrees since 1963 and it was not immediately known how the new order would affect existing rules.

Earlier the U.S. Command announced the loss of four aircraft since Sunday.

One was a U.S. Army helicopter that crashed 20 miles northeast of Saigon today, killing 32 American military men. The command said the cause of that crash was not known but the helicopter was on an administrative noncombat mission.

A total of 36 American helicopters and 34 planes have been lost since the start of the North Vietnamese offensive March 30, the command said, with 64 Americans killed in the crashes, 62 missing and 18 wounded. This includes noncombat as well as combat losses.

Lawrence Optimistic Over Truman Funding

Chuck Lawrence, executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, who returned from Washington, D.C., Tuesday evening, said at a press conference here Wednesday that the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir project "will hopefully get more than $19.5 million," which is the amount recommended by the Senate public works committee for the 1973 fiscal year.

Lawrence was the only Pettis Countyman among the 25 members of the Missouri-Arkansas River Basin Flood Control Association (Mo-Ark) who appeared before the Senate and House public works committees on appropriations in Washington Monday to request increasing the Truman budget to $32 million. The 1972 fiscal year budget request for the dam now is $19.5 million.

could be complete by 1978 if enough funds are provided.

He said the delegation included 12 persons from Clinton, five from Warsaw, and the rest from Osceola, Windsor and Cole Camp. Sen. William J. Cason, Clinton, Missouri Senate majority floor leader, also was a member of the delegation.

Joe Bockelman, Warsaw, submitted a 31,000-signature petition to Stanley Fike, Symington's administrative assistant, Lawrence said. The petition requests that work on the dam be continued.

Mo-Ark is one of several groups opposing a recent move by the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) which has sought an

'River of Sorrow' At Flooding Stage

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Vietnam's great river of sorrow is at flood tide again as hundreds of thousands of refugees stream out of their homes and villages, away from the enemy, away from the bombings and the artillery barrages.

By boat and army truck, they come in an endless flow of misery, on foot, on motorbikes, on incredibly overloaded buses from places that are no more. Dong Ha. Quang Tri. Cam Lo.

Da Nang is the mouth of the great river; more than 300,000 homeless have poured into the lovely old French port at the bottom of the 3,000-foot-high Hai Van Pass, the Pass of the Clouds.

Some never get there at all. The carcasses of two army trucks and a bus that once ran from Dong Ha to Hue to Da Nang lie in deep ravines among a rubble of shattered crates and suitcases, mute testimony to the treacherous curves on the winding, climbing road through the pass.

A few days ago a wooden and straw junk, loaded with 110 refugees, capsized and sank in a storm along the coast.

American civilians working with Vietnamese welfare officials estimate 250,000 persons are trapped in the northern villages between the new front line above Hue and the demilitarized zone.

Camp Books, which the U.S. 1st Marine Division vacated two years ago, is a ghost town come back to life. Families from Dong Ha and Cam Lo, which the Marines once secured and pacified, hang their washing and cook their noonday rice in the screened-in barracks still bearing the signs: "Gunnery Sergeant's Hooch," "Exchange Laundry Shop," "Personnel Decon Station," "A Company Mess Hall."

For some, from the country, the living is easier than they have ever known: electricity, fresh water, plumbing, housing with tin roofs, wooden floors and screens. Vietnamese public health officers visit the eight military camps reclaimed from the past, lecturing the people on how to use the toilets.

The best organized refugee center is Camp Land, a former U.S. prison stockade still ringed with watchtowers and 12-foot-high concertinas of triple mesh barbed wire. The camp's self-government committee, meeting in what once was the warden's office, has organized bus service into town, schooling for the children and a project of straw-hat-making to raise some community funds.

The few personal possessions that the refugees carry on their backs or sling across the radiators show a bizarre and pathetic range of priorities: A large fishing net. An electric fan. Two sewing machines. A barber chair. A large wooden bed, almost hiding the Jeep beneath it. Two love birds in a cage. A favorite cooking pot. And lashed to the tops and the tailboards of almost every truck winding up through the pass, a tangle of motorbikes and bicycles.

McGovern Nebraska Winner

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Sen. George McGovern has defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in their Nebraska primary and Humphrey walloped Gov. George C. Wallace to score what he termed "a truly magnificent and great victory" in West Virginia.

"I have a strong and growing hunch this will be a big victory for us," McGovern told his Nebraska supporters in Omaha by telephone from Washington shortly before returns from Lincoln and rural areas gave him victory in the clearest test between the two Democratic presidential hopefuls before their June 6 California contest.

The South Dakota senator seemed likely to emerge as Humphrey's chief rival for West Virginia's 35 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. They are being chosen separately from the nonbinding preference contest in which McGovern wasn't entered.

Both primaries Tuesday featured nonbinding presidential preference contests and separate delegate races, with long lists of candidates likely to delay the final results until later in the week.

In Nebraska, McGovern took the lead as the count neared the halfway mark after he trailed in earlier returns weighted heavily with votes from Omaha.

Radio Hanoi claimed that nine American planes were shot down in the Hanoi area today, three in the Haiphong area, and two in Yen Bai, the province northwest of the capital through which the railway to China passes.

The broadcast charged that the raiders did great damage to hospitals, schools and residential areas in Hanoi and caused many casualties.

Informed sources in Saigon said as many as 200 strikes were flown today against North Vietnam. The sources said that for the first time since before the partial bombing halt on March 31, 1968, U.S. planes attacked the northwest railway over which China ships some of the arms and ammunition it supplies Hanoi.

The U.S. Command gave no details about the naval shelling in the Haiphong area, but other sources said it was part of President Nixon's campaign to cut off the movement of war materials into North Vietnamese ports and out of them to the Communist forces in South Vietnam.

Hanoi claimed that two American destroyers were set afire by shore batteries while shelling "a number of populated areas in Haiphong" on Tuesday. U.S. military spokesmen said they had no reports of any 7th Fleet ships being hit.

Series on Levy Starts Tomorrow

Next Tuesday voters in the Sedalia School District 200 will be asked to cast their ballots on a 65-cent school levy increase. Believing the outcome of the special election will have far-reaching effects on the community, The Democrat-Capital will begin a four-part series tomorrow explaining many questions and answers involved in this issue.

Included in the series will be articles voicing the opinions of parents of school-age children, explanations from school district officials on the legal and practical aspects of the election, a discussion with one Sedalia educator who hopes to instruct kindergarten this fall, and a frank explanation of the financial aspects of the election.

Be sure to watch for this vitally important series beginning in tomorrow's edition.

very long since the bulk of the construction has been accomplished.

The city's contract with Carr stipulates that failure to complete the work on time would result in a $50-per-day penalty for every day beyond the original 210 days allowed.

Jones said this penalty would be assessed against Carr would come off the final payment, according to Jones.

The Sedalia Park Board recently announced it had set this year's rates for all the city's parks, including Centennial. For the season a family pass would cost $32.50, single adult $17.50 and child, $8. The latter applies to persons 13 years old and under. Daily rates were set at 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

On Junior High Work

Vote Contractor's Pay

The Sedalia board of education Tuesday evening voted 4-2 to pay the monthly bill from the contractor building the new junior high school, discussed the upcoming revote on the tax levy increase and listened to a presentation about educational television station KETC-TV of St. Louis.

Marvin Maune, of Sammons and Buller, architects, answered numerous questions about progress on the junior high, which was originally scheduled for completion March 27.

Board member Mack Kell Jr., asked questions concerning various inadequacies in work on the building, most of which Maune said had already been pointed out to Don Bron, contractor.

Board member Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick, who voted against paying the monthly bill along with Mrs. William Dugan, also asked several questions.

Later the board voted to meet with the architects and contractor at the construction site at 1 p.m. Friday. At one point in the meeting Kell said, "Things that were called to his (Bron's) attention long long ago" have not been taken care of. The board also discussed the possibility of having to call upon Bron's bonding company to get satisfaction on various aspects of construction.

It was pointed out, however, that as long as the contractor has been working at the site, such action could not be taken. This could possibly delay the final completion of the structure, it was learned.

Concerning the tax levy increase to be resubmitted to the voters Tuesday, Kirkpatrick recommended that each board member make a personal effort to contact people and ask them to vote yes. Mrs. Paul Hausam, board member, commended the work in support of the levy by various groups in town.

Mrs. Elliott Braverman of the League of Women Voters said a recent statement by board president George Thompson was particularly useful in asking people to support the increase. She quoted Thompson as saying a negative vote was not against the board or the school system, but against children.

A half-hour presentation including a film segment by B. G. Murray, director of school services for Channel 9 (KETC-TV), in St. Louis, drew no discussion in the regular board meeting. Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, said the school levy vote would probably play a role in further consideration of educational television. He noted such a project had been little talked about so far.

Murray told the board and audience, which included all of the elementary school principals, the station is non-profit and community-supported. He explained the station's $800,000 budget is funded by two sources: schools enrolled with the station and public donations gained through "pledge nights."

He said the cost of the station's programming for schools is $125 per student per school year. Jim Atkinson, manager of Cablevision, Inc., here, said the school district would never be billed for

For Centennial Pool

Mayor Jones Denies Pool Delay Rumors

The grand opening for the Centennial Park Pool is still planned for May 29, according to Mayor Jerry Jones, who said rumors the opening might be delayed until July or August were not true.

Homer Carr, the contractor for the work, on May 1 requested a 30-day extension from the City Council, which was denied. Jones said Carr cited bad weather as the prime cause for the delay in the project, originally scheduled for completion in late April.

However, Jones said, other contractors in the area have indicated that "we really have not had a bad winter." When Carr asked for the extension, according to Jones, he indicated that with good weather he could complete the work in half the time requested.

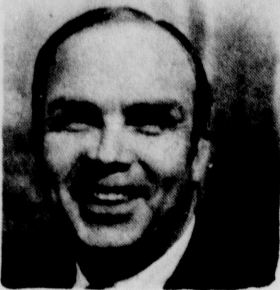

Jones said he inspected the pool area last weekend and found that extensive finishing work still remained to be done. But, he said, this should not take subcontractors very long since the bulk of the construction has been accomplished.

Vitamin C Controversy Rages

Q — After mention (in a recent column) that I claim that we might benefit from massive doses of vitamin C, which provides protection against colds, there is the statement: "There's no clinical evidence to support this," attributed to Dr. John Bieri, nutritionist with National Institutes of Health. There is, in fact, overwhelming clinical evidence.

Drs. Cowan, Diehl and Baker of the University of Minnesota school of medicine, for example, carried out a clinical study with 363 students. About half of them received 180 milligrams of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) per day, and the other half received a placebo. The amount of illness with the common cold was only two-thirds as great for the ascorbic acid subjects as for the placebo subjects. — Dr. Linus Pauling, Professor of Chemistry, Stanford University.

A — What you claim is "overwhelming clinical evidence" is tagged "insufficient clinical evidence" by the majority in the scientific community who have worked with vitamin C as nutritionists or medical men.

I should have reminded readers that using massive doses of vitamin C to prevent or cure colds is a highly controversial issue. On that, most agree. All agree that more studies in depth must be done to end the controversy. The National Institutes of Health has embarked on a major study of vitamin C and its possible effects on the common cold. It should be revealed next year.

Until then, let's look at some suggestions and warnings that have bubbled out of the controversy. First, some medical men seem to feel moderate doses of vitamin C may have an effect on reducing runny noses which are caused by body sensitivity (especially during some women's menstrual periods). There's less support for the claim that vitamin C prevents or kills off viral colds.

Second, there's growing evidence that prolonged, high doses of vitamin C may cause the body to excrete too much valuable calcium, potassium and possibly other minerals. Looking for an abortion drug, the Russians gave 20 pregnant women 6 grams of vitamin C daily and 16 of them aborted. Of course, this cannot be considered irrefutable clinical evidence either.

Q — In a recent column, you mentioned the Seventh-Day Adventist Five-Day Plan to stop smoking and quoted one doctor saying it did help hard-core smokers but possibly the average smoker could do better on his own.

Over a period of 11 years more than 10 million people have quit smoking through the Five-Day Plan. So we certainly believe that it is beneficial for the person who doesn't feel himself a hard-core smoker to take part in such a group therapy program. We offer this as a free community service to those who so desire. — E.H.S., International Five-Day Plan Director.

A — Thanks for the information. If stopping smoking might save lives and your method is effective and free, concerned smokers should give it a try.

Q — I have wall-to-wall wool carpeting and I also have a poodle who is old and urinated in several places on the carpet. I've tried everything and a yellow stain remains. How can this be removed? — Mrs. L.C., Monterey Park, Calif.

A — The National Institute of Rug Cleaners says you should blot up moisture with a towel. Then flush the spot with a solution of one teaspoon of mild powder detergent in a cup of warm water.

Mop up and rinse with plain water. If all the detergent isn't rinsed out, when it dries you can vacuum it up. You might give a final light rinse with white vinegar. If there's still discoloration, your carpet may have lost some dye. A cleaning company may be able to restore some color.

Expert Is Indignant On Dollar Debasement

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Franz Pick, who believes that a nation is only as strong as its currency, has just issued another indignant report in a long series on the "debasement" of the U.S. dollar.

So mismanaged is the dollar, says the 73-year-old currency authority, that it is now undergoing a staggering decline in all black markets of the collectivist world, where once it was treasured and hoarded.

"In East Berlin's Unter den Linden Hotel, where 16 marks were once paid for a dollar banknote, one gets less than 11 marks at present," he laments. "In Prague's Hotel Alcron, it is difficult to get 30 korunas per greenback against 72.50 gotten in 1969."

Pick makes his money advising banks, foreign governments and corporations on currency matters, a labor of love which keeps him traveling the world.

His chief concern about currencies is that they have a tendency to get debased, or lowered in value. It gives Pick fits, and he is forever reminding listeners:

Finances
Topic For Red Cross

The Pettis County Red Cross board met Tuesday morning at the local office and discussed the chapter's financial picture and upcoming programs.

Chairman Jim Denny reported that the United Fund budget committee had allocated the chapter $16,000 for 1973, an increase of $1,000 over the current year. Expenditures in 1973 are expected to total $19,549, however.

Mrs. Jane Menefee, executive secretary, reported that demand for Red Cross first aid training from industries and businesses had grown greatly in recent months, since the federal government has been enforcing the Occupational Safety and Health Act. She said 181 persons had received basic first aid training since Jan. 1.

Applications for the annual Red Cross swimming program will go out to area schools this week, it was announced. Dates of the programs are June 12-23 and July 10-21. Last year 1,032 persons received swimming instruction under the program.

Red Cross Gray Ladies and members of the Bothwell Hospital Auxiliary will be recognized by the hospital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at State Fair Community College, it was announced.

Denny appointed P. J. Hedderich, Mrs. Robert Gardner and Doug Kneibert to a nominating committee.

Pass Sewer Bond

LICKING, Mo. (AP) — A $105,000 bond issue to finance a new water supply and sewer system in Licking, Mo., was approved Tuesday by residents. The vote was 194 in favor to 19 against.

Hungarian people hope to hug a hog for luck on New Year's Eve.

"The destiny of the currency is and will be the destiny of the nation."

What hurts him particularly is that the dollar once was so strong, so desirable, that nobody questioned its value or, as another way of stating Pick's views, nobody questioned the stability of the United States.

"At one time, Washington was able to talk with pride about the 500 per cent premium for greenback dealings behind the Kremlin walls," he commented in his latest "World Currency Report," which he publishes monthly.

But no more. Since the late 1950s and 1960s, he claims, the black market value of the dollar has declined against Communist currencies.

Even more galling to Pick, who fled the Nazis in 1941 and who seems not to like being dictated to on any matter, currency values included, is the apparent stability of the Communist currencies.

"Despite all horrible systems of concentration camps in Siberia, or the political jails in Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany," he says, "these lands have, for the last decade or longer, kept a stable cost of living, having no significant budget, foreign trade or balance of payments deficits."

Until the United States gets its monetary house in order, Pick worries not only about its prestige but its power too. He reminds you that a currency is but a symbol of the nation and its management.

Department Stands By Earlier Food Estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite sharply higher food prices early this year, the Agriculture Department is sticking to its February prediction that housewives will pay only 4 per cent more at the supermarket in 1972.

The latest estimate, included Tuesday in an updated food-situation report, said grocery store prices during the first three months this year averaged 5 per cent more than in the first quarter of 1971.

That bulge now has settled a bit because of recent declines in meat prices, the report said.

"But some further rise may be in store this summer," it cautioned. "Seasonal factors, brisk demand and some tightening of pork supplies will account for most of the expected advance."

The predicted 4-per-cent gain for grocery store prices this year compares with a 2.4-per-cent rise in 1971.

All food prices, including meals eaten away from home, are expected to increase between 4 and 4.5 per cent this year, compared with an all-foods boost in 1971 of 3.0 per cent, the report said.

That estimate also was a repeat of a projection made by the department in February. Officials said meat products, buoyed by higher farm prices and larger middleman spreads, will account for most of the increase this year.

"Pork prices will be sharply higher than last year's extremely low levels, and beef prices will also average significantly higher than last year," the report said.

Some other predictions included:

—Potato prices may rise slightly this year, compared with a decline in 1971, and fruit is likely to increase during the summer, but not as much as last season.

—Any gain in vegetable prices will be tempered by the usual seasonal increase in supplies. Vegetable prices will likely increase into early summer, (but) perhaps by less than a year ago.

For all of 1972, the report said, consumer food spending is expected to total 5.5 per cent more than last year, including adjustments for population increases as well as an upswing in prices. That would mean a national food bill of about $124.8 billion, a $6.5-billion boost from last year.

Clinic Is Held At Heber Hunt

The last immunization clinic for Sedalia public schools for this academic year was held Monday at Heber Hunt School and 99 pupils were given oral polio vaccine and 112 were given diphtheria-tetanus (DT) injections.

Clinics were held Tuesday at schools in Dresden, LaMonte and Green Ridge. Clinics were also held Wednesday at the R-I School and Houghton Elementary School.

Clinics will be held Thursday at St. Paul's Lutheran School and the State School for the Retarded; at Smithton School on Friday and at Sacred Heart School on Monday.

Mrs. Howard Piant, county health nurse, told The Democrat-Capital that an estimated 180 DT and 281 polio vaccinations will have been given this school year in Sedalia and Pettis County. An additional 650 children received DT booster injections and 425 received polio booster vaccinations.

She added that through the annual vaccination program, the immunization level of Sedalia and Pettis County has more than tripled since the county health nurse program was started four years ago.

Down Bond Issue

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — A $690,000 bond issue was voted down by residents here Tuesday. It would have provided funds for a new elementary and junior high school. The vote was 599 in favor and 652 against the issue.

Aide-de-Camp
Status Given
Sedalia Man

Jack Alpert, 1609 Country Club Blvd., has been named national aide-de-camp, recruiting class, by Joseph L. Vicit, Uniontown, Pa., commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Alpert was cited for signing up 50 or more new members, or reinstating former members, for the Pettis County VFW post.

In making the appointment, Vicit said, "This year we are directing our attention to the staggering task of picking up the pieces of this country fragmented by the war in Vietnam. Many problems face us as a nation. If we in the VFW are to contribute our fair share to the solution of these problems, we must depend primarily on membership. I congratulate Mr. Alpert for his support and because he exemplifies the highest principles of the Veterans of Foreign Wars."

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — North American Rockwell Corp., is considering becoming the distributor for Russian-built jet commuter planes.

A spokesman for the firm said negotiations for the tri-engine craft will depend partly on a survey of American commuter airline operators to see if they would be interested in the Yak-40 passenger jet.

The spokesman said no U.S.-built planes are designed specifically for the commuter market.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Frances Pearl Wahlers

Mrs. Frances Pearl Wahlers, 81, 419 North Hill, died at her home at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Wahlers was born in Morgan County, Nov. 14, 1890, daughter of the late John C. and Nancy C. Sortore Hays. She was married to Fred Wahlers in Lexington on July 30, 1908, and he preceded her in death on June 18, 1961.

She had been a resident of Sedalia since 1919 and was a member of the Baptist Church.

North Viets Blast

Nixon Mine Effort

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam declared today that the U.S. mining of North Vietnamese ports was "a criminal violation of international law leading to extremely dangerous consequences."

"The U.S. aggressor should be warned," said the official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan, "that trade relations and communications between the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and other nations is based on international law."

"U.S. defiance of that international law is a criminal pirate act that insolently provokes those nations who have relations and communications with Vietnam. The U.S. must bear full responsibility for the results of that provocation."

Nhan Dan made no mention by name of the Soviet Union, which sends most of its military aid to North Vietnam by sea.

injunction to discontinue work on the Truman project. A May 22 hearing is scheduled in the U.S. District Court in Kansas City.

Lawrence said Sen. Tom Eagleton also filed a petition Monday with the two committees urging "favorable consideration to a full capability appropriation for the Truman Dam and Reservoir."

Lawrence said he also discussed the proposed area Safeguard system with Randall.

Lawrence said Randall asked him to inform Sedalians that he is "staying on top" of the ABM situation. "So we can expect something from Randall within the next week," Lawrence said.

Randall is reported to have had a conference with ABM personnel before and after his meeting with Lawrence. "Something seems to be about to jell for this area," Lawrence said, adding that Randall did not give him any concrete information. Part of the uncertainty stems from the technical terms being used in various communication between the Army and the civilian groups, and "this is not being clearly interpreted," Lawrence said.

Three-County Jobless Picture Has Improved

An improved employment picture in Pettis, Johnson and Morgan Counties saw unemployment insurance payments made by the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security fall to $60,566 during April, it was reported Wednesday.

That figure compares to $116,878 paid during March by the same office and reflects a drop of $80,506 from the amount paid in March, 1971, which was $141,172.

Other area offices reflected the same trend. Clinton's office paid $34,407 last month, compared to $60,422 in March and $53,426 during April last year. In Marshall, unemployment insurance benefits fell to $24,410 in April, down from the $44,331 paid the month before. Both of those figures compare to $55,765 paid in April, 1971.

Three Thefts Are Listed For Police

Sedalia police are investigating three thefts reported Tuesday and early Wednesday.

At about 8 p.m. Tuesday Jerry Kilson, Richmond, told police a $70 Panasonic tape player was stolen from his unlocked 1965 Chevrolet stationwagon while it was parked at 1405 East 16th.

At 6:44 a.m. Wednesday a $75 theft of a cartridge tape player and five tapes was reported by Georgean Killion, 455 West Saline. She told police the theft must have occurred between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 6:30 a.m. Wednesday while her car was parked and locked in front of her address.

Earlier Tuesday, Vern Burton, 239 Colonial Lane, told police a $225 tape player, and 12 tapes valued at $60 were taken from his 1971 Buick while it was parked at his home Monday or Tuesday.

service charges and would only pay for installations.

Murray explained that programming is set up with the help of educators from member school systems.

Wednesday Norris said the board viewed a brief program similar to another educational children's program, but the exact nature of what KETC was offering was never outlined. Presumably, the channel offers educational programs for use by schools, but the board was given no elaboration on what these programs were.

He noted KETC was the fifth educational television station to begin operation in the country, opening in 1954. He added there are now 218 such stations. He also said the station doubled its power last year and will be a total-color operation by next year.

He emphasized that KETC is not a part of any school system.

Several members of the Community Educators Association were at the meeting in anticipation of a board response to the group's requests submitted at the April session. The CEA asked that all teachers have equal amounts of free time; each teacher be allowed 30 minutes of free time to eat lunch; and that the Easter vacation be permanently set up to include the Thursday and Friday before Easter and the Monday and Tuesday thereafter.

Thompson said the board did not have its answer ready but that a decision would definitely be made following Tuesday's tax levy vote.

Also concerning the teachers' requests, Kell asked that the minutes of the special May 1 meeting, at which the board discussed the requests with elementary school principals, be amended to show he voiced opposition to having members of the news media expelled.

In other action, the board approved a budget for the coming year with additions to get estimates on air conditioning of the music room, a new curtain for the Little Theater and floor covering for the kitchen and cafeteria at Horace Mann. Also, Charles McNealy, system maintenance supervisor, was authorized to investigate purchasing a used truck.

The board voted to partially continue the summer recreational program. This summer the Smith-Cotton gymnasium will be open only in the mornings and the stadium will be open for four hours in the evening. Also, head basketball coach Jim Dinsdale and Dave Porter, his assistant, will conduct a two-week basketball camp in August.

The board voted to pay a $75 honorarium to Dr. Roy M. Fisher, Dean of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, who is to be this year's commencement speaker, accept the resignation of Mrs. Nina Freed; grant a leave of absence to Mrs. Sue Friedly; employ Charles Vanderlinden to teach drivers' education this summer, and authorize checks for boys who have worked on the stage crew this year.

Bids for basketball equipment were received and read from S & M, and Gateway of St. Louis. The equipment will be purchased from S & M, it was decided.

Bids from three firms on football equipment will be turned over to the coaching staff for recommendations. Norris will then contact the board members by phone.

The board voted to have Robert Cummings, head of the music department at Smith-Cotton High School, seek a written bid from Shaw Music Co. for two pianos. The only written bid submitted to the board was from George Young on Wurliizer models at $695 each.

The verbal bid by Shaw's on Baldwin models given Cummings was for $795 each. Cummings was directed to seek a written bid from Shaw's and give it to Norris, who would in turn contact the board members.

The board also approved the purchase of chair slides for $633 from the only company which makes slides that fit the system's chairs.

Extended unemployment benefits, those paid state residents who earned wage credits in Missouri but now live outside the state, stopped at the end of last month. However, the Sedalia office paid $4,793 in that month, compared to $24,203 paid in March.

Sharp reductions were also noted in Clinton and Marshall. The latter paid $2,383 in April, compared to $11,130 in March, while the Clinton office paid $4,196 last month and $15,717 in March.

Herman Julien, director of the Division of Employment Security, said regular unemployment insurance payments to veterans were 21.4 per cent lower in April than in March. Former federal civilian employee's payments were down 25.2 per cent, he said. Both are included in the nearly $7 million paid Missourians last month.

Julien said the average weekly benefit check in April was $47.84, down slightly from the March average. Regular April jobless payments for all programs were 24.8 per cent below the amount paid a year ago, he said.

Democratic Convention Held Tuesday

Eight state and congressional caucus delegates and four alternates were elected at the Pettis County Democratic Convention Tuesday afternoon. The meeting, which lasted 2½ hours, was held in the Circuit Court chambers.

Seventy-eight of the 79 county delegates attended the meeting.

Delegates elected were Mrs. Emmett Fairfax, Sedalia east ward; James T. Buckley, first ward; Wallace McCown, first ward; George A. Cook, Smithton; Carl Franklin, third ward; the Rev. Robert Magee, first ward; Mrs. Laura Fischer, fourth ward; and Mrs. Epha McBain, second ward.

Alternates elected were Charles Stockstill, Earl Winston, Mrs. Vernon Horn and W. C. Corlew.

Buckley, who is Pettis County Democratic chairman, was elected convention chairman, and Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson was elected convention secretary.

Buckley announced that the District 4 Congressional caucus will be held May 23 at Warrensburg. The Democratic State Convention will be held June 10 in Jefferson City, he said.

Soviets Cautious On Moves

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet press continued to exercise caution today in reporting President Nixon's orders to cut the supply of Soviet war materials to North Vietnam by mining the North Vietnamese harbors.

Pravda, the Communist party newspaper and the Soviet Union's most important paper, again refrained from direct comment and published Tuesday's Tass dispatch from Washington, which called Nixon's step "naked acts of aggression" and a "violation of norms of international law."

The paper, the only one published today after a three-day holiday marking the end of World War II, also carried Tuesday's Tass dispatches on antiwar demonstrations in the United States, the bombing of North Vietnam and the "liberation of areas of South Vietnam."

The caution in the government-controlled press seemed to indicate that the Kremlin had not yet decided how to deal with Nixon's direct challenge to the Soviet leadership.

India joined Communist governments today in condemning the mining of the North Vietnamese ports while America's allies continued to support the move.

"There can be no justification for this escalation," Foreign Minister Swaran Singh told the Indian Parliament. "Hundreds of thousands of human lives are being lost and more are being rendered homeless and I am sure this house will join the government in condemning this latest escalation."

North Korea's Communist party newspaper, Nodong Sinmun, called Nixon a "war maniac, . . . a truculent warmonger, a murderer and vicious enemy of peace."

The Polish press said the Pentagon hawks had persuaded Nixon to escalate the war and increase the "barbarous" air raids over North Vietnam. However, the article avoided personal attack on Nixon who is scheduled to visit Poland later this month.

The Cairo newspaper Al Gomhouriya, the organ of the ruling Arab Socialist Union, accused Nixon of "pushing the world to the brink of war to win re-election."

Australian Prime Minister William McMahon said his government "understands and supports" Nixon and "strongly condemns" North Vietnam and its allies but opposition leader Gough Whitlam said: "It brings the war to a stage of direct confrontation with the Soviet Union. President Nixon's decision is fraught with peril for world peace."

Terrorists Plague With Bombing Raids

BELFAST (AP) — Terrorists and street crowds hit Northern Ireland during the night with a new wave of bombing, shooting and stoning of British troops. Four soldiers and one militiaman were wounded and buildings were damaged in several towns.

Across the border, the Irish republic was voting today in a national referendum deciding whether the country should join the European Common Market at the end of the year.

The 1,783,604 voters were asked to give Prime Minister Jack Lynch's government authority to amend the 1937 constitution to permit joining the European Economic Community.

Sinn Fein, the Irish Republican Army's political front, opposed the linkup with Europe.

Fiscal Year Sales Tax Over $700,000

Tuesday Sedalia received $54,055.58 from the Missouri Department of Revenue — the last city sales tax check for the current fiscal year, which ends May 31, City Clerk Ralph Dedrick told The Democrat-Capital Wednesday.

This payment brings the fiscal year's total sales tax receipts to $754,132.35, Dedrick said.

Cutoff Debate Pushed

Kansas Demonstrators Hold Lawrence Building

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Demonstrators occupied the University of Kansas administration building hallways today after choosing to avoid arrests in a confrontation with law enforcement officers when some of the protestors were ordered out of the chancellor's suite.

A rally was called for 11:30 a.m. today outside the building as a gesture of support for the 100 or so inside.

University officials allowed the young people, most of them university students, to occupy the hallways, but said anyone remaining in the administrative offices of Chancellor E. Lawrence Chalmers Jr., would be arrested.

Officers of the Kansas Highway Patrol, Kansas Bureau of Investigation and University Security Police were present and prepared to make the arrests when the demonstrators voted to have about a half dozen of their number leave the chancellor's offices.

The confrontation ended at 4:30 a.m., following more than 10 hours of talks over demands made by the students on the university administration.

The young people, protesting escalation of the Vietnam war and specifically the U.S. mining of harbors, demanded creation of a special university committee to investigate the school's research projects, statements by Chalmers and the university Senate Executive Committee repudiating U.S. involvement in Vietnam, and an all-university convocation to discuss other means of protest and, possibly, take some action.

The Senate Executive Committee and Chalmers agreed with the demand for the investigative committee on research about 2 a.m., but rejected the other demands or offered alternatives.

A statement by the Senate Executive Committee, made up of nine faculty members, said only the full university Senate could draft an expression of university sentiment on the war.

The administration agreed to permit an "open meeting" of all who want to attend at 8 p.m. tonight in Allen Field House on campus, but this did not satisfy the protestors who want the formal convocation.

They continued their demand that the meeting be closed an all-university convocation, which the students contended could take action binding on the university-under university rules.

However, under Kansas law the ultimate authority over the state's universities and colleges rests with the state Board of Regents.

Efforts by newsmen to talk to Chalmers early today following the pre-dawn confrontation were thwarted by Harry Buchholz, director of the university physical plant, who ordered the newsmen to leave the chancellor's quarters along with the protestors.

The full university Senate scheduled a meeting shortly after noon today. The Senate's Executive Committee was prepared to recommend that students be permitted to either withdraw passing or take an incomplete in their courses, with the option of making their final examinations up later.

Dee Dee Kraft, Galesburg, Ill., one of the student spokesmen, said the students demanded this option so they could participate in the demonstration and still make up their final examination work at a later date to salvage this quarter's course work.

Final examinations began today at KU, and continue through May 19.

The students occupying the hallways of Strong Hall, the administration building, this morning bedded down on the hall floors with pillows, blankets and food snacks.

Steve Hollis, a senior at KU, told the protestors during the night, "we're going to stay here until we can get them to change their minds. By tonight, maybe we can have 500 or 1,000 people in here. We'll stay here until they meet our demands."

Miss Kraft told newsmen, "we're interested in stopping the war, and we're interested in the university's involvement in the war. We're not accusing the university of anything. We want an investigation to determine the university's role in the war."

The committee being created will have faculty, staff and students as members. Its purpose will be to probe all research being conducted at KU, but focusing on those projects which are military-related.

The University Senate Executive Committee issued a statement saying Chalmers had requested creation of the committee. It said there is a "continuing concern that the research be conducted in consonance with objectives that are in the best public interest."

Heading the contingent of law enforcement officers on the scene were Fred Howard director of the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, and Col. William Albott, superintendent of the Kansas Highway Patrol.

Kidnaping Charge For St. Louis Man

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joseph D. Barnes, 22, of St. Louis, was charged with kidnaping Tuesday in connection with the abduction of a Texas woman.

He is accused of kidnaping Dixie Kelly, 23, from a parking lot at McAllen, Tex., and forcing her to accompany him in her car to St. Louis.

Authorities said Barnes demanded $5,000 ransom from Mrs. Kelly's mother, Mrs. Mervyn Smalldridge before he was captured April 29.

Barnes was charged in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury in the court of U. S. District Judge William H. Webster.

Antiwar Protests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Antiwar demonstrations bloomed like May flowers at several Missouri and Kansas points Tuesday in wake of the announcement by President Nixon of intensified military action in North Vietnam.

At Lawrence, a rally on the University of Kansas campus attracted about 500 people. The students presented antiwar demands to Chancellor E. Lawrence Chalmers Jr.

The chancellor met with representatives of the protestors, the student senate executive committee and the Haiphong Committee, throughout the night and until early today.

The university agreed to permit an "open meeting" of students in Allen Field House tonight at 7 p.m.

A meeting of the University Senate was scheduled at noon to discuss options of permitting students to forgo final examinations with no credit or grant incompletes with right to take final exams later.

A crowd of about 200 students milled around in corridors of the university's administration building while the meeting was in progress.

At Columbia, a University of Missouri student was arrested and charged with littering during a demonstration at the federal building.

An estimated 120 young people carrying antiwar signs marched around the MU administration building while nine persons supporting the President's action sat on the steps.

Authorities said William Van Arsdale was arrested at the federal building and charged with littering. Police said a picture of Nixon was removed from the building and smashed on the sidewalk.

In St. Louis seven members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War took stations at the top of St. Louis' 630-foot-high Gateway Arch, but were taken into custody for blocking traffic at the top of the arch.

They then staged a sit-down demonstration in the park visitor center but left when the center closed for the day at 5 p.m.

About 100 students began a sit-down protest of increased United States involvement in southeast Asia early today at Olin Library on the Washington University campus, security police said.

A campus policeman said the students caused no trouble. He said they entered the library about 12:45 a.m.

"Tonight (early today) in the Washington University library we will decide how to act. We ask others to join us," a statement by the protesting students said.

Flat River Man Killed in Wyoming

EVANSTON, Wyo. (AP) — Jessie Mace, 81, of Flat River, Mo., was killed late Monday when he was struck by a car while crossing a street in this southeastern Wyoming community.

The Wyoming Highway Patrol said Mace had disembarked from a bus at the Evanston station and crossed the street. The patrol said he was hit by a vehicle driven by 17-year-old Roger Jones of Evanston while recrossing the street to return to the bus.

Kissinger Says No New Offers

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger "offered nothing new" in his secret meeting with North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho on May 2, the chief of Hanoi's delegation to the Paris peace talks said today.

Xuan Thuy, the delegation leader, told newsmen as he left for Hanoi that Kissinger repeated the old American position "of aggression and colonialism that we have more than once criticized and rejected."

Kissinger told a news conference in Washington Tuesday that at their meeting in Paris last week Tho offered no change in the North Vietnamese position.

Thuy said both North Vietnam and the Viet Cong are "disposed to negotiate seriously to settle the Vietnamese problem."

Tho, who accompanied Thuy to the airport, accused President Nixon and Kissinger of violating two agreements concerning the secret talks.

He said it had been agreed that the weekly semipublic meetings of the peace talks would go on parallel with the secret sessions. He noted that the United States had suspended the semipublic sessions indefinitely on May 4, two days after the Kissinger-Tho meeting.

Tho also said Kissinger had agreed not to give out any details of their secret meetings but he did so on Tuesday.

The North Vietnamese reported that during their meeting Kissinger charged that Hanoi wants to impose a Communist government on South Vietnam. Tho said he told Kissinger this is not true, that instead Hanoi proposes a coalition government in Saigon.

Thuy said he felt it necessary to return to Hanoi "to give a report to my government" because the United States has escalated the war and "sabotaged" the peace talks.

Thuy will stop in Moscow and Peking en route home. He did not say when he will return, but Tho is remaining in Paris.

Driver Double Take

Motorists on Main Street in Hyannis, Mass., did a double take when they spotted a large white dog behind the wheel of its master's sports car recently. It was all legal, however, since the car was parked and the canine was merely standing watch until its owner returned. (UPI)

Influences of Yankees
Felt Even in Australia

ARMIDALE, Australia (AP) — Australia, too, has its New England—a 20,000 square mile block of rugged mountains, rolling plains, and spectacular waterfalls.

It's in the north of New South Wales, 50 to 100 miles from the coast and is a tableland, about half of which is over 3,000 feet high. It runs from a place rejoicing in the name Hanging Rock to about 200 miles north to Wallangarra on the Queensland border. It is 50 to 125 miles wide.

The days are clear and sunny most of the time, but winter temperatures most mornings are below freezing. Snow falls on some parts of the tableland every winter, and at times is heavy enough to block roads.

Scots settlers early last century started to call the area New Caledonia, but by 1836 the English were calling it New England and in numbers they prevailed.

Today it's the New England Tableland, and there's the New England (Mountain) Range, and the New England Highway is the best road between Sydney and Brisbane.

The early settlers of the 1830s to 1860s named towns after places in what they called the "old country." So for England there are towns in New England named London Bridge, Salisbury, Stonehenge and Wandsworth; for Scotland there are Dundee, Ben Lomond (both a town and mountain), Bannockburn, Dungowan and Glencoe; for Wales there is Llangothlin while Killarney is there for the Irish. There is even a Kentucky and a Maryland. For Australia there are places named Gun-nedah and Goonoo-Goonoo.

In the bad old days of last century a feared bushranger (hold up man on horseback) nicknamed "Captain Thunderbolt" ranged New England. He would, it is said, hide in a mass of rocks near the road and then riding his horse and waving a gun or pistol hold up the stage coach. Thunderbolt was shot dead in 1870 and was buried in the cemetery of the town of Uralla.

But today New England is a peaceful place, with rich farming and sheep country, orchards and holiday spots, soft scenery and waterfalls.

Hoover Library Iowa Attraction

By DAVID R. MCMILLEN
News Editor
Iowa City Press-Citizen
For The Associated Press
WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Herbert Hoover, 31st President of the United States, was born here on Aug. 10, 1874, in a two-room cottage built three years earlier by his father, Jesse Clark Hoover.

Today, the same cottage, now more than 100 years old, is the centerpiece of the Herbert Hoover National Historic Site and Presidential Library.

Formerly known as Hoover Park, the site is just off Interstate 80, which bisects Iowa east and west, about 10 miles east of Iowa City, home of the University of Iowa.

The 33-acre site includes, in addition to Hoover's birthplace, a replica of the blacksmith shop operated by Jesse Clark Hoover; an early Quaker Meeting House; the gravesites of Herbert Hoover and his wife, Lou Henry Hoover; and a Federal Building, occupied jointly by the U.S. Post Office and the National Park Service, which administers the site.

The second of three children born to Jesse and Hulda Hoover, young Hoover spent the first 10 years of his life here. After pneumonia and typhoid fever claimed his father and mother, respectively, Hoover went to live with an uncle on a farm northeast of West Branch.

At the age of 11, he journeyed to Newberg, Ore., to live with another uncle. At 17, he entered the engineering school of the newly opened Stanford University where he was graduated in May, 1895, with a bachelor of arts degree in geology.

Then followed a succession of events that vaulted Hoover into world prominence as an engineer and humanitarian during and after World War I.

In 1921, President Warren G. Harding appointed Hoover secretary of commerce, a post he held for more than seven years under two Presidents. When President Calvin Coolidge refused to seek renomination in 1927, Hoover became the Republican party's leading candidate.

He was nominated overwhelmingly and subsequently defeated his Democratic rival, New York Gov. Alfred E. Smith, by the largest popular and electoral vote any President had received up to that time.

Most of the memorabilia associated with Hoover's rise to the presidency and his later life are housed in the library, dedicated Aug. 10, 1962, his 88th birthday.

Much of the Hoover archives was originally housed in the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution, and Peace, a research center at Stanford University. Hoover's papers relating to war relief remain at Stanford, while those created during his service as secretary of commerce, as president, and in retirement are in the library at West Branch.

The papers are open to researchers on application to the director, Thomas T. Thalken, a former associate at Stanford.

Exhibits in the library-museum depict Hoover's life in five periods: Early life, 1874-1914; World War I relief, 1914-23; secretary of commerce, 1921-28; president, 1929-33; and elder statesmen, 1934 to his death, Oct. 20, 1964.

A cabinet designed by Mrs. Hoover in 1907 using parts from a 450-year-old Flemish piece is among the exhibits, along with a statue of "tommy-knocker," a gnome traditionally credited by miners with warning them of rockfalls or water breaks. Hoover brought it back from a Russian mine he visited in 1908.

Hoover's image was the first to be shown by television over a long distance, in 1927. The cumbersome device was set up in a Washington, D. C., funeral parlor. His image was broadcast to two screens in New York, some 200 miles away. The television set is a part of the museum's displays.

During the peak summer tourist season, the museum's hours are expanded to 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. weekdays, and 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Sundays and holidays, May 1-Labor Day. The remainder of the year, Labor Day-April 30, the museum hours are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. weekdays, and 2 to 5 p. m., Sundays and holidays.

The library-museum also features a 180-seat auditorium in which films of Hoover's life and American history are shown during the summer months and at other times by arrangement. Although admission is free to the other buildings of the Herbert Hoover National Historic Site and Presidential Library, a 50 cent admission to persons 16 and over is charged to tour the library-museum.

Jerry Iuchs

Iuchs Slated To Attend Conference

Jerry Iuchs, 203 West 13th, Pettis County Civil Defense director, has been selected by the Federal Office of Civil Defense and the State Disaster Planning and Operations Office to attend a three-day seminar on emergency preparedness May 16-18 in Columbia.

The purpose of the seminar is to improve the emergency readiness at the local level by providing training to Civil Defense directors. The seminar is being sponsored by the Federal Office of Civil Defense and will be conducted at no expense to local CD agencies.

Schedule Meeting For Radio Workers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A meeting was scheduled today between management of radio station KWK and striking employees.

The station ceased broadcasts at 5 p. m. Tuesday and had not returned to the air by early this morning. A spokesman said KWK would remain silent at least until after the meeting.

A management spokesman said he had no comment on the action by the nonunion employees.

Italians Watch Weight

ROME (AP) — Italy's fat pasta industry is losing weight.

Nowadays fewer Italians gorge themselves on spaghetti and wine. More and more of them are counting calories and watching their weight.

Spaghetti, fettuccine, lasagne, cannelloni, ravioli and the like—the dishes that made Italian restaurants famous—are the victims of a new era when the slender get the dates and the fatties go to the movies alone.

"The industry's plight is grave," Milan's daily Il Giorno wrote after a nationwide survey.

In the last two decades pasta production has remained at 14 million tons a year despite a steady population increase and twice as many tourists. The 14 million figure is only a half of the industry capacity.

Also in the last 20 years 1,630 pasta plants have folded, most of them the small family-type operations in the poorer south.

Exports have been on the rise, however—from 40,000 tons a year in 1951 to 852,000 tons last year. Nostalgic Italian emigrants are said to have a considerable role in pasta consumption abroad.

French colonists arrived in Louisiana in 1718.

Circus!

To some it's the wild animals, uniquely out of place in the Fairgrounds Horse Show Coliseum. Others enjoy the clowns as they coax laughter from the crowd with exaggerated antics. The masters of balance and agility draw the attention of still more, while those with a special knack for enjoying life just sit back with a bag of popcorn and take it all in.

It's the circus with its sights, smells and sounds which evokes from all appreciation of varying degrees. It promises much with colorful costumes, parading pachyderms and agile acrobats. It disappoints some, who have lost the ability to smile at life; but it amuses and entertains many more who remain young in mind and spirit.

It was for the young that the local Pettis County VFW Post 2591 sponsored two performances of the Carden-Johnson International Three-Ring Circus Tuesday at the Fairgrounds. Two shows were performed at 4:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. before packed houses. VFW officials distributed 4,600 tickets to Pettis County youngsters, enabling them to enjoy the two-hour show free. But there were other spectators besides the young, and proceeds from the shows are to be divided between Little League Baseball and the VFW Recreation Center project northeast of Sedalia.

And from all reports, when the second show was finished at 10 p.m. Tuesday, not only had thousands of young Pettis Countians been entertained, the efforts of the local VFW post were rewarded with healthy gate receipts.

Wife Needs Help Not Criticism

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I have been married four years. Before we married I thought she was the most beautiful woman I'd ever seen, as well as the most intelligent and thoughtful. I was sure she'd be the ideal wife and mother. I never dreamed she had a lazy bone in her body.

Everything has changed. My dinner used to be on the table at 5:30. Now, I'm lucky if I see it by 6:15. My wife used to be a fabulous cook. Now, I think she has a contest with herself to see how fast she can throw a meal together. I'd like to have a nickel for every time I've had to ask her to iron a shirt before I leave for work in the morning.

We have four children, the youngest is three months. I'd love to come home to a clean house, a decent meal, and enjoy my little family. Is that asking too much? If you say it is, I'll never gripe again. Or, should I lay down the law and tell my wife to shape up or find someone who doesn't mind living like a slob. You decide. — Mike In Hammond

Dear Mike: So you think maybe you ought to tell her to "shape up?" A woman who has had four babies in less than four years hasn't had much chance to think of her shape. Bub. How much help have you given her — except for contributing to her pregnancies?

I'm not defending the girl's poor housekeeping or the late meals, but I am suggesting that maybe she has her hands full with the four little ones and you might give her a lift instead of being so critical. Those "lazy" bones in her body may be tired bones. And by the way, if Planned Parenthood isn't against your religion, I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: If you print this letter you will be blessed by every beauty salon owner in the world. It's a request that mothers leave their kids at home when they go to the beauty parlor.

Our shop is small and we are cramped for space.

Occasionally we see a well-behaved child but when we do it is the exception rather than the rule. Most of the youngsters who come here are completely out of control and their mothers could care less. The kids run loose, knock into manicure tables, put their hands in the finger bowls and mess with the metal rollers and hairbrushes. Mom, of course, doesn't see or hear a thing. Her head is under the dryer and her nose is buried in a magazine. The kids are so destructive we can't even keep shrubbery outside.

No operator can do justice to a customer when children are stumbling over her feet and banging into the supply trays. If your letter doesn't do it, we'll have to put up a sign. What do you say, Ann? — On Trunks

Dear On: Here's the letter, but it won't solve the problem. Neither will the sign. The mothers with the wild kids never think you mean them.

Dear Ann Landers: Who is your expert on geography? Is he on vacation? In a recent column you mentioned Asheville, North Carolina. You said, "You are THERE and I am in Chicago — 1500 miles away — and you ask ME to solve a problem that could be settled with a simple sentence."

Ann, Baby — Asheville, North Carolina is 700 miles from Chicago. Get with it. — Tape Measure Harry

Dear Harry: For shame. I goofed. By 800 miles. Will you settle for ten raps with a varnished yardstick?

Simple Question Is Most Complex

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 13 years old and I have a problem which is of general interest to girls my age. Today some girls at school were talking about having babies, and I was wondering what the procedure is when you have a baby. I know that you are taken to a room and when you come back you have had a baby. But what happened in between?

Dear Reader — Now, you've really got me. Your simple, innocent question would take several columns to answer but it's important that it should be answered because it deals with one of the most normal and important personal aspects of people's lives. A lot of girls your age who need basic information aren't getting it.

I do hope that you can talk with your mother about this, or perhaps you have a favorite teacher to whom you would like to talk to about it. Your teacher might even show you diagrams to help you understand the problem.

I will try to tell you this much. The baby, of course, grows and develops inside the mother, and it takes about nine months. During this time, the woman's body is undergoing a lot of changes, preparatory to birth. The baby is in a rounded bottle-shaped organ which many people call the womb. This flask-shaped organ has strong muscles in its wall and when the mother goes into the room to have her baby, these muscles in the womb contract vigorously and push the baby out the opening of the vagina. Of course, this opening undergoes changes and dilates in preparation for this. It is a simple, mechanical event which mothers have experienced since the beginning of mankind. In most normal deliveries, the muscles of the mother's womb are able to expel the baby with their own contractions. It is a perfectly normal and beautiful experience, which is part of nature.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would like to know if raw hamburger meat is good for you. I eat raw hamburger meat, but not too much. My parents are always telling me not to because I will get worms in my stomach. Is this true?

Dear Reader — There was a time when this might have been true, but in today's carefully supervised markets, it is most unlikely that you can get raw hamburger that would cause you to have beef tapeworms or any other type of worms. It is still true, however, that you should not eat raw pork. Unless pork is properly cooked, it can cause a person to have trichinosis, another kind of parasite that passes through the digestive tract. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Damages Result In Bus Blaze

WINSTON, Mo. (AP) — An estimated $17,000 damage was caused by a fire Tuesday that burned four school buses and the building in which they were housed in the northwest Missouri community of Winston.

School Superintendent Harold Flinn estimated damage of $12,000 to the buses and $5,000 to the building.

The blaze was fought by firefighters from Cameron, Gallatin and several other nearby communities but they were unable to prevent the loss of the buses or building. Flinn said parents would be asked to provide transportation for pupils for the three remaining days of school.

Gambling and Drugs Support Big Crime

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A number of private and government studies now seem agreed no real dent in crime in this country can be achieved until illegal gambling and heroin can be brought under control.

Cromley

Loanshark victims are pressured into theft and hijacking. Infiltrated "legitimate" firms are used for distributing stolen goods.

One recent study says flatly the criminal

Illicit gambling brings $20 billion a year to finance the syndicates and bankroll loansharking, the infiltration of legitimate business, prostitution and a host of other illegal pursuits.

The process snowballs. Loanshark victims are pressured into theft and hijacking. Infiltrated "legitimate" firms are used for distributing stolen goods.

justice system's inability to curb urban crime can, in many respects, be attributed to heroin addiction. Some criminal court judges have found that 75 per cent of all the cases they try involve defendants with a history of heroin use.

It is not news that many, perhaps most, heroin users must turn to crime to support their habit.

But with these conclusions on gambling and heroin at hand, it is strikingly evident that, to date, very little headway has been made in drying up either.

Several states have experimented with legalized lotteries, off-track betting and other forms of government-controlled gambling. Thus far there is no convincing evidence these states are successfully competing with the numbers men and other syndicate types. For one, no way has been found whereby the state can match the handy neighborhood runner, the ease of credit (backed by enforcers) and the secrecy of the illegitimate operator (which permits tax evasion).

Probably more concentrated attacks on the crime syndicates have been carried out these past few years than at any time in the past. Arrests have reached new records. But there is no indication that syndicate strength has been sapped.

The studies suggest, in fact, that the underworld is growing in power.

The heroin situation is no brighter. Despite some highly-skilled police work, nationally and internationally, some brilliant diplomatic negotiations with Turkey, Laos, France and other lands, and truly extensive penetration of some international heroin syndicates, there is no sign the drug traffic is broken or going into a decline.

All this is true despite the strategically sensible decision to concentrate on the major syndicates and on finding the weak links in those syndicates. Thus the effort has not been spread overly thin by going after every pusher and user, which would have been like dipping water out of the ocean with a teaspoon.

What we must have now is a highly-concentrated research effort, comparable with sending a man to the Moon, aimed at discovering just what would be effective in breaking up illegal gambling and the heroin trade.

Should this research cost $50 billion over the next decade, it would, if successful, be cheap "at double the price." For, as noted above, illegal gambling and heroin alone add up to an estimated $26 billion a year and provide the base for other crimes costing the citizen several tens of billions of dollars year additionally in direct costs and more billions in public and private police and other protective services.

Politics No Place For FBI

WASHINGTON — Judgment is yet to be passed on President Nixon's ultimate choice to head the Federal Bureau of Investigation, but the President must be commended for early efforts to get the FBI out of politics.

Rowan

L. Patrick Gray III, named as temporary successor to J. Edgar Hoover, says that Mr. Nixon has emphasized that he wants the FBI to be strictly nonpolitical, even to the point of asking Mrs. Gray to stop working for the Committee For the Re-election of the President.

We hope, however, that the President's exhortations went far beyond asking that Gray keep the FBI aloof from organized political parties. One of the worst burdens on the FBI in recent years was that it was enmeshed in the broader politics of ideology, of social and economic policy.

Millions of people had come to feel that the Bureau was so much a reflection of the troglodytic views of septuagenarian Hoover that it was the gendarmierie of the far right rather than an apolitical police operation.

Other Americans felt that the FBI had become less the scourge of bank robbers and spies and more the relentless enemy of groups seeking social, economic and racial reforms. Thus the FBI came to be viewed as the great protector of "the establishment."

We can hope Mr. Nixon has warned that the new FBI director is not to lecture the nation on child-rearing and the evils of "permissiveness." We hope the President emphasized that the FBI director is not religious counselor to the nation, so the people expect no sermons from him as to who and what is "Godless."

It was posturing and vocalizing in these and similar areas by Hoover more than any pro-Republican activities that gave the agency a reputation for being a pious, rightwing trampler of civil liberties.

Not that a partisan air did not leak out occasionally. After Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) called for Hoover's resignation, the late director's deputy, and almost inseparable companion, Clyde A. Tolson, wrote the following to McGovern:

"You are not the first person I have encountered during almost 50 years in Washington whose ambition has far exceeded his ability, and I cannot help wondering how many other esteemed public servants will be maligned and abused before your political balloon runs out of hot air."

It was no coincidence that those targeted for such extraordinary public displays of FBI ire were almost always Democrats and those from the moderate to leftist end of the political spectrum.

Presumably, Mr. Nixon is putting an end to such outbursts.

The challenge, beyond that, is to restore an image to an FBI that is representative of and responsive to ALL Americans.

News stories of Hoover calling Dr. Martin Luther King "the biggest liar in the country" were enough to convince all but a handful of black Americans that the FBI was hostile toward them. Repeated revelations of buggings and wiretappings of black civil rights leaders and notables gave substance to suspicions that the FBI regarded as "subversive" any black behavior other than shuffling Uncle Tomism.

Unfortunately, FBI hiring policies added to the alienation of minority groups from the Bureau.

In 1961, then Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy complained to Hoover that of 5,873 FBI agents only 11 were Negroes, eight were Spanish-Americans and one was an American Indian. After Kennedy's death Hoover revealed gratuitously that he had been so irritated about Kennedy's trying to make him "lower standards" and hire more minority group members that he had ceased speaking to Kennedy, who supposedly had been his boss.

But the hiring pressures stayed on, and by the end of 1970 the FBI could boast that of its 7,689 agents 51 were blacks, 39 were Spanish-Americans and three were American Indians.

That was progress, but it still left the FBI with one of the worst personnel records in government. Fewer than 1 per cent of its agents were black, and there was no black or Indian and only one Spanish-American holding a "super-grade," or policy-making, job in the entire Bureau.

A new director ought to change that if only for the practical reality that the FBI is inadequately staffed to do a proper job in minority communities.

But drastic personnel changes are necessary also to win the FBI the cooperation, support, and respect of all the people. Only when such broad respect is regained will anyone be able to say that the FBI is truly "out of politics."

Openness Is Needed By Tipton's Board

The Tipton school board appears to have a curious notion of its obligations to the public that it supposedly represents.

This was evident again Monday night, when the board met once more in a special session, but refused to entertain questions from the audience, numbering more than 100, about board policies.

Earlier that day, members of the board had reportedly attempted to convene informally in a private automobile, but gave up the idea when one member objected.

On May 1 the board met for roughly three hours in secret, while more than 50 citizens who had come to the session were kept waiting. The board reported it discussed "personnel matters" for the entire time.

Until recently, the board barred other news media from its meetings, maintaining that the news was the exclusive property of the local weekly newspaper.

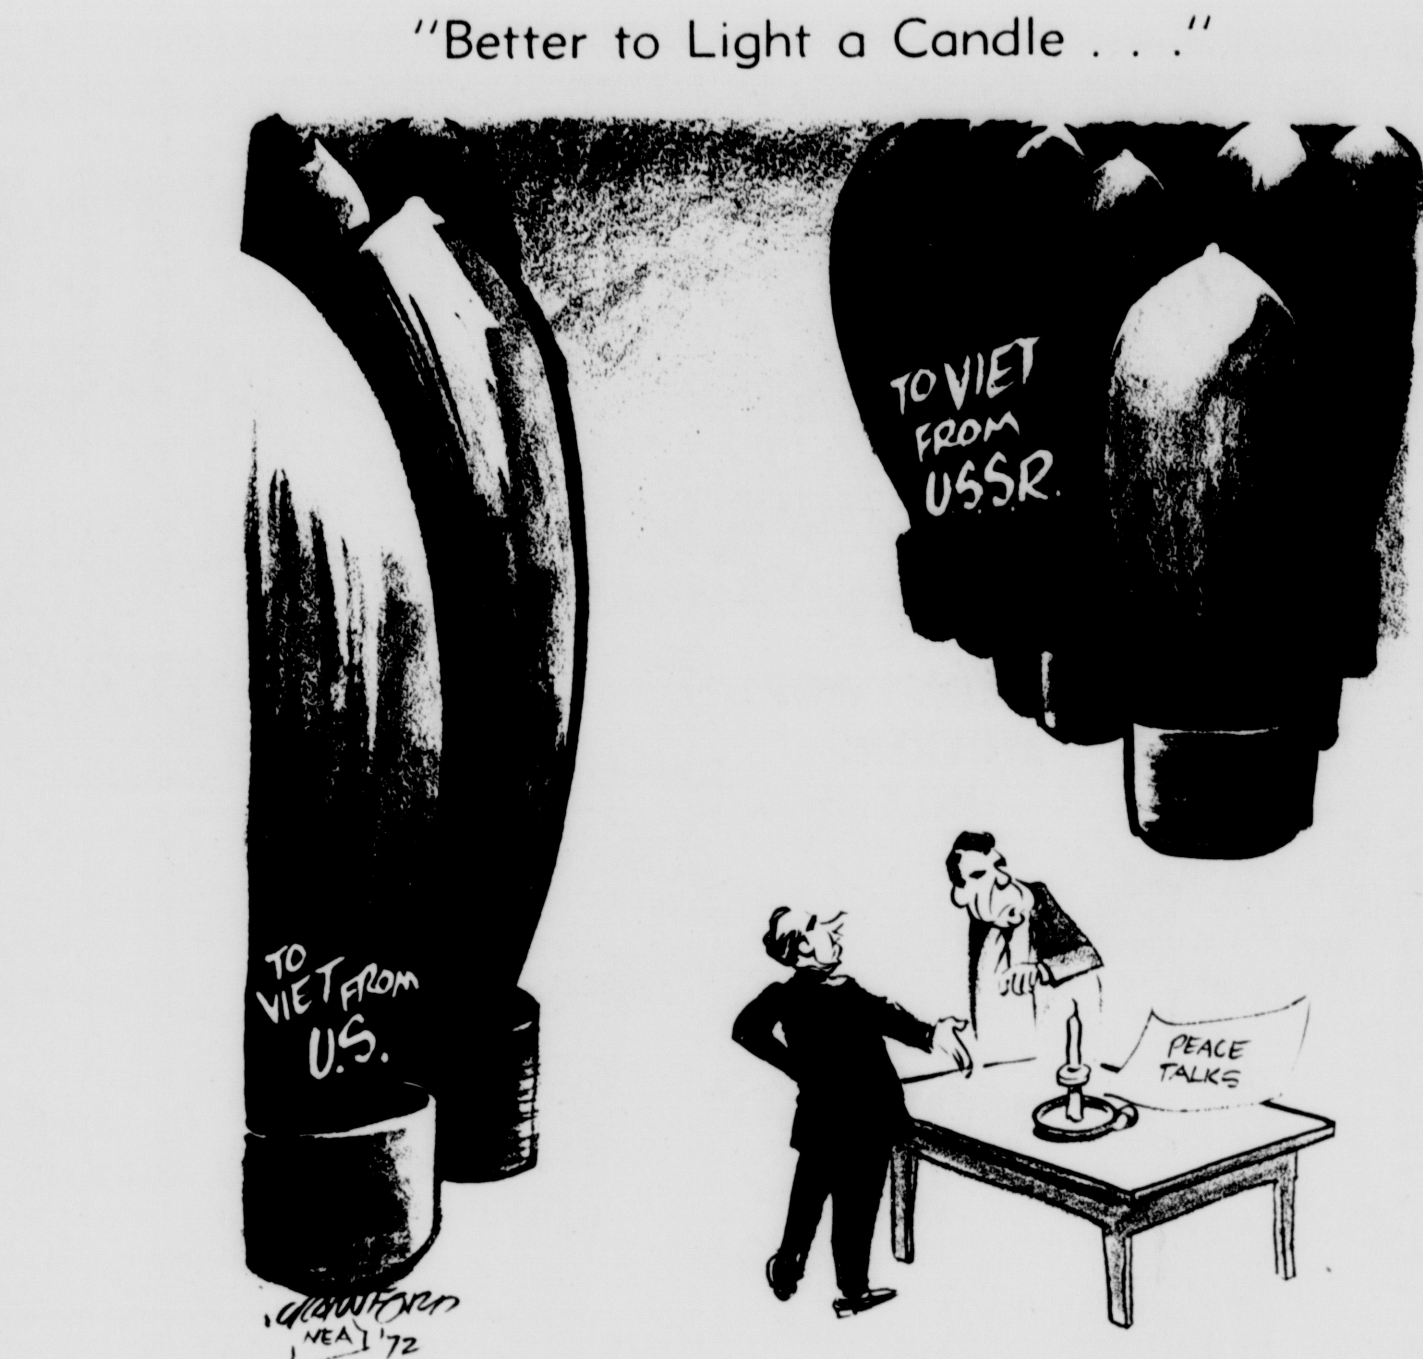

From the size of the crowds at recent school board meetings (at least those that were announced in advance) and their increasingly impatient mood, it is evident that district patrons are getting fed up with the board's penchant for secrecy and its failure to be accountable to the very public that elected it.

Although some members of the board have demonstrated their opposition to handling business in this manner, their voices are evidently not strong enough to change things.

The Tipton school board can still recoup much of the public confidence it has lost if it will observe certain rules and procedures common to public bodies. Chief among these would be to meet only at regular, pre-announced times, following an agenda prepared in advance. The practice of holding clandestine "unofficial" meetings is one of the quickest ways to arouse public suspicion and distrust.

In addition, the board should allow a certain amount of time at its meetings for questions from the public, or even call a special meeting for this purpose. There is no place in a democracy for the kind of high-handed approach that says the public has no business asking questions.

We believe the Tipton school board has the same goal as do patrons of the district—the best possible education for the youth of the community and area. Elimination of anything that stands in the way of that purpose should be a matter of high priority for all concerned.

Soviets Shot Rays At U.S. Diplomats

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Hidden in the Central Intelligence Agency's (CIA) most secret files is an account of a possible Soviet attempt to "brainwash" our embassy personnel in Moscow with mysterious microwaves.

The fantastic details are contained in a file marked "Operation Pandora," which describes how the Russians bombarded our embassy with eerie, low-radiation impulses. Their secret intent, it was suspected, may have been to alter the personalities of our diplomats.

The bizarre story began in 1945 when a Russian presented Averill Harriman, then our ambassador, with a handsome carved Great Seal of the United States. Harriman proudly hung it in the embassy.

The seal contained a tiny electronic eavesdropping device, which monitored conversations inside the embassy until 1952, when it was detected. From this shocking discovery came urgent orders that all embassies must be periodically checked for electronic signals.

In the '60s, U.S. security men discovered the strange microwave impulses, some steady, some pulsating, directed into our Moscow embassy from a neighboring building.

The CIA quickly learned that Russian medical literature suggested microwaves can cause nervous tension, irritability, even disorders. They speculated that the Russians were trying to drive American diplomats stir crazy with the waves.

Neither the CIA nor the State Department had the facilities to test the effects of the silent rays on human beings. At the Pentagon, however, the super-secret Advanced Research Project Agency had worked on electronic sensors and other weird projects.

The agency quietly began a study, under the direction of Richard Cesaro, into the effects of microwaves on people. Cesaro gave the project the code name, "Operation Pandora," and called in a physician, Dr. Herb Pollack, and two crack military scientists, Dr. Joseph Sharp of Walter Reed Army hospital, and engineer-microwave expert Mark Grove of the Air Force.

Sharp and Grove, supplied with the microwave data monitored in the embassy, duplicated the embassy environment, using monkeys for diplomats.

The monkeys actually were trained to perform tasks and then were rewarded with food, much as embassy employees might be rewarded with a dry martini at the end of the day.

The monkeys were studied night and day for months at Walter Reed, while a collateral experiment was also conducted on rabbits by consultant Dr. Milton Zaret in his own laboratory.

In the embassy in Moscow, meanwhile, no one except the highest diplomats and security men were aware of the secret microwave drama.

By 1967, the scientists felt they had watched the monkeys long enough for a tentative reading. Some felt there were signs of "aberrant behavior" caused by the microwaves, but the majority disagreed. Only the rabbits showed clear changes—in their heart rate—which Zaret attributed to heat from the rays.

The disagreement on psychological changes were sent to a top secret reviewing board, which also could reach no absolute conclusion that the rays affected the monkeys' minds.

Nevertheless, the suspicion lingered, and the White House decided that even if the microwaves were not "brainwashing" embassy people, they should be halted. It was also suspected that the waves might be part of some radical new surveillance technique.

At the June 1967 Glassboro meeting between President Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin, the question of the microwave rays came up. One informant insists Johnson personally asked Kosygin to end the ray bombardment, although other sources say the request was made at a lower level.

By 1968, most of Cesaro's scientists were convinced that the microwaves were not psychologically harmful and the embassy experiments ended in early 1969.

The brilliant work done by the team, however, has now led to important research on the effects of microwaves. So far, tests show high radiation can injure eyes, genital organs and perhaps other parts of the body. But, as yet, there is no conclusive proof that low-level radiation is harmful.

Footnote: We have spoken with Cesaro, Pollack, Sharp, Zaret and Grove. All acknowledge they worked on "Operation Pandora," but all refuse to go into details. As Sharp put it: "Pandora was classified in those days and still is."

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has eased up on the car makers, all very secretly, so they can spew more exhaust into the atmosphere than federal law allows.

The Clean Air Act requires a reduction of at least 90 per cent in poisonous exhaust emissions by 1975. But it has been left up to EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus to implement the law.

Ruckelshaus's first proposal was so weak that Ralph Nader and other environmentalists raised an almighty howl. On the other side, the auto makers, led by General Motors, claimed it was too tough.

Publicly, EPA defended the proposal, but behind closed doors, the agency caved in to General Motors.

We have a confidential "briefing memorandum" from Deputy Assistant Administrator John Middleton suggesting a relaxation of the testing procedures to please GM.

"It should be easier for industry to meet these standards," Middleton told Ruckelshaus in the memo. "The degree of standards relaxation thus achieved cannot be determined, although (the car industry) suggests that the easing is not insignificant."

Footnote: A Middleton assistant, Irwin Auerbach, told us, "There is room for disagreement, but the standards are still at least 90 per cent. The new standards are now more closely in accord with actual driving conditions."

'Right to Life' A Consideration

In the same belief as that expressed in your editorial Tuesday, several area residents recently attended the meeting in Jefferson City of a newly-formed state organization, Missouri Citizens For Life, embracing the various right of life groups working throughout Missouri. This is an ecumenical venture for youths and adults to combat the abortion explosion and the euthanasia threats.

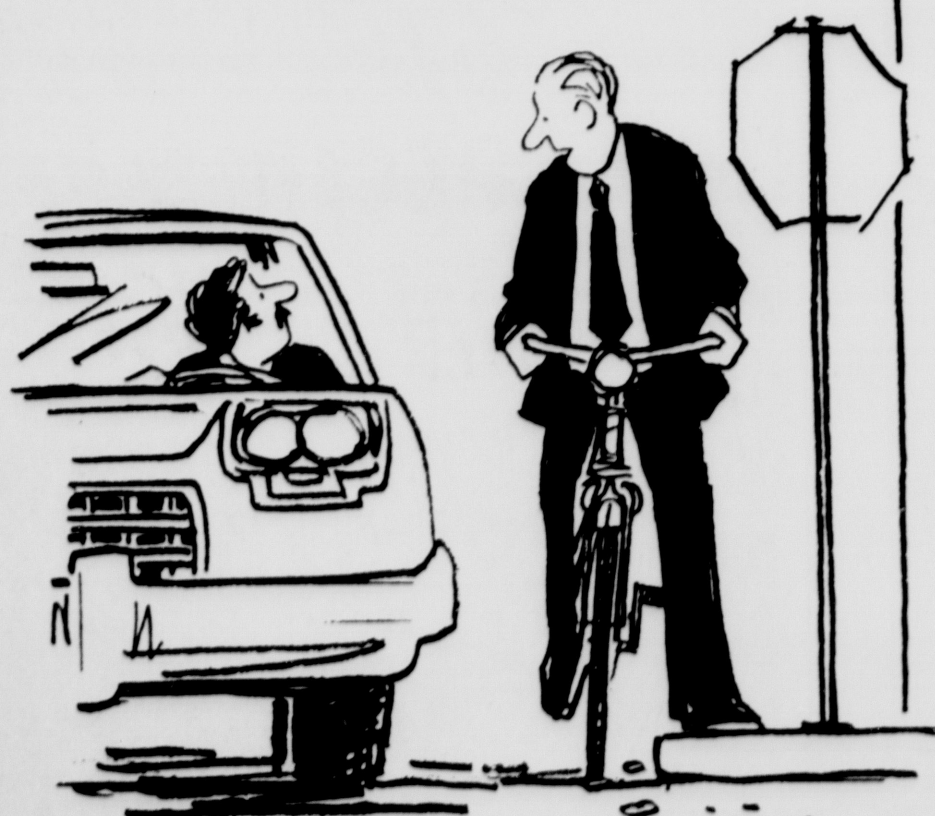

Members were alerted to question the source of vaccines used to inoculate their families. We were shocked to learn that in looking for cheaper vaccines, research companies now can buy live aborted fetuses to use rather than animals. One company now has vaccines for polio, measles and rabies from this source of human tissue.

Until we stop thinking of human fetuses as "things," instead of human beings, we will find no way out of this tragic situation.

Sedalian Is Chief Of Police

(Democrat-Capital Service)

VICTORIA, Tex. — Robert H. Winley, a former Sedalian, recently was appointed chief of police here, it was learned by relatives in Sedalia.

Winley is the son-in-law of Pettis County Deputy Sheriff Orval Lewis, 713 West 11th, and the nephew of Mrs. Stella Stewart, 1212 South Lamine.

Winley was appointed to the position after serving as acting chief of police for a short period, it was reported. The appointment was made by John Lee, city manager.

He served as chief of the operations division of the police department here before becoming acting chief and had been with the Victoria police force since Feb. 1, 1963. Winley has 18 years of police service and is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy. He attended Smith-Cotton High School before entering the armed forces.

Winley is married to the former Betty JoAnn Lewis, Sedalia. They have one daughter, Dana Lynne.

Pageant Picking Begins

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The great American spectator sport of picking a pretty pageant winner had its seasonal debut Tuesday night. It was NBC's live broadcast of the finals in "America's Junior Miss" Pageant from Mobile, Ala.

As pageants go, this one is a neat package. It is contained within a brisk hour of broadcast time, including the commercials, and this seems plenty of minutes to coverage the events. Some of the more leisurely paced show might benefit from watching it.

The high school seniors, representing 50 states, were as usual pretty, healthy and engaging. Host Ed McMahon, a kindly grandfather figure, whipped the show along like a veteran wagonmaster. The contestants had their moments in a longish musical introduction. A handful was involved in a dance number which demonstrated more than anything else that the Rockettes have no close competitors in precision kicking.

Those traditional rites out of the way, the elimination moved the contest quickly down to 10 girls. McMahon questioned each on some weighty subject—the responsibility of the news media, the meaning of obscenity, war, peace and the influence of religion on contemporary life. Each candidate answered with vast sincerity if not always with absolute clarity.

The exciting finale came when the list was cut to five for the talent competition. It was something of a surprise. There were two very competent pianists and three interesting vocalists. Lydia Hodson of Kentucky, one of the singers, emerged as the winner.

It appears that the cavalry is on the way to attempt a rescue of Dick Cavett and his late night ABC series. Jack Paar, an old friend and former employer, will be Cavett's sole guest next Tuesday night. Alfred Hitchcock, who is as rare a sight to the midnight viewer these days as Paar, will drop around on June 8.

The network has given Cavett until the end of July to boost his show's flagging Nielsen ratings—those new CBS movies seem to be pulling a lot of his audience away. If Cavett fails, the show will close at the end of September.

If recent announcements of coming attractions are an indication, it appears the Cavett guests will be mainly show business personalities—John Lennon and Yoko Ono, Shirley Maclaine, Bill Cosby, Charlton Heston and others in the star bracket.

U.S. Mines a New Innovation in War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hundreds of underwater mines dropped by U.S. Navy planes to seal North Vietnam's ports are highly sophisticated devices unlike the old iron contact mines familiar to World War II sailors.

The new mines can be triggered by a variety of means and are equipped with timing devices much like an alarm that both automatically arm and deactivate them.

The timing is determined before the mines are air dropped into the sea.

With President Nixon allowing a three-day grace period for foreign vessels to safely leave North Vietnam's ports, the mines were set to become armed after 6 a.m. EDT Thursday.

The U.S. Navy formally notified all shipping of the mines Tuesday afternoon, saying any ships sailing the affected waters "must do so at their own risk."

Once dropped into place, military officials believe the North Vietnamese will have a difficult time clearing the mines from their waters. The mines are hard to detect and difficult to disarm. Hanoi has but four mine-sweeping naval vessels, far too few to have any significant effect, the officials say.

However, the Soviet navy has over 300 minesweepers. But it was not known whether Moscow will send them to Hanoi's aid. If the ships are sent it's expected that the United States would simply lay more mines.

The mines weigh about 1,000 pounds each and can be dropped from virtually any Air Force or Navy bomber-type aircraft.

Mines used by the United States during World War II were relatively simple devices—spiked iron balls which exploded on contact with a ship. Since they floated on or just below the water's surface, they were often easily detected.

The mines now being seeded in North Vietnamese waters either lay on the muddy bottom or are suspended by cable at various depths, waiting for passing ships to trigger their powerful explosive charge.

The three principal types of mines in the U.S. arsenal are:

- Acoustic mines that explode when the noise of a ship's propeller comes within range.
- Magnetic mines, normally used in shallow water, that detonate when a ship passes overhead interrupting its magnetic field.

—Pressure mines, also used in shallow water, that explode when the mine senses a change in water pressure created by a passing ship.

Goodman Child Seriously Hurt

ANDERSON, Mo. (AP) — Cathy William, 7, of Goodman, Mo., was seriously injured Tuesday when she ran from a school bus into the path of a car near Anderson, Mo.

The girl suffered severe head injuries. She was first treated at a Neosho hospital and then transferred to St. John's Hospital in Springfield, Mo.

Rangers Stay Alive

BOSTON (AP) — The stage was set for a big celebration. The champagne was well chilled, the Stanley Cup presentation ceremonies were outlined, and cameramen were warned to photograph "only appropriately dressed" players in the Boston dressing room.

Then the New York Rangers, playing a role of gate crashers, ruined the Bruins' party, at least postponing it for another 48 hours.

The Bruins were within just 20 minutes, one period, of whooping it up and either sipping the traditional bubbly or dousing each other with it. However, the Rangers rallied and edged the Bruins 3-2 on a pair of third period goals by Bobby Rousseau Tuesday night, sending the National Hockey League's championship playoffs back to New York for a sixth game Thursday.

Down 3-1 in the best-of-seven series and virtually written off by virtually everyone except themselves, the Rangers stunned the Bruins, although out-shot by Boston by a 38-26 margin.

Asked if the Rangers, who defeated Boston only once in six regular season games, could win three in a row for their first Stanley Cup in 32 years, New York Coach Emile Francis smiled and said:

"There's still no tomorrow for us. We have to win every game. As for beating Boston three in a row, see me Sunday afternoon and I'll let you know."

Both Francis and Boston Coach Tom Johnson agreed the key came in the second period, when the Rangers managed to halt the Bruins despite a two-man disadvantage while trailing 2-1.

The Bruins enjoyed a 5-3 advantage in skaters for one minute and 29 seconds but were unable to add to their lead because of the defensive play of Dale Rolfe, Brad Park and Bruce MacGregor and the goaltending of Gilles Villemure.

Rousseau, held scoreless for 22 consecutive games against Boston and kept on the bench, except for power plays, for two periods, was unleashed by Francis in the finale.

The little winger tied the score when his routine shot broke off Boston goalie Eddie Johnston's left arm and tricked into the net at 2:56 of the third period. Then he scored the game winner at 12:45, taking a pass from Ted Irvine and beating Johnston on a deflected shot.

Pat Patterson Rites Are Set

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Funeral services will be Thursday in suburban Ballwin, Mo., for pro bowler Claude "Pat" Patterson Jr., a nominee for the American Bowling Congress Hall of Fame.

Patterson died Tuesday after a seven-year battle with heart disease. He was 46.

In recent years Patterson was proprietor of a suburban bowling establishment. He teamed with Jerome "Whitey" Harris, Tom Hennessey, Ray Bluth and Don Carter in 1958 to post an ABC record of 3,858 in a team series with the St. Louis Budweisers.

Services will be at 1 p.m. (CDT) at the Schrader Funeral Home. Burial will be at Sunset Burial Park. Visitation hours are from 3 to 10 p.m. today at the funeral home.

Marichal Loses No. 5

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal never has had a losing season since joining the San Francisco Giants in 1960. Starting this season, he had the best winning percentage among active National League pitchers with more than one year of service, compiling a .670 mark on 221 victories and 109 losses.

He had pitched 50 shutouts, tops among all active pitchers. He had the third best earned run average in major league history, a .294 mark, behind Walter Johnson's 2.37 and Grover Alexander's 2.56.

Now, Marichal is headed for his first losing season. After shutting out Houston 5-0 in the Giants' opening game, he has lost five in a row, including a 7-1 decision to Montreal Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago trounced Cincinnati 7-1, Pittsburgh trimmed Atlanta 5-2, St. Louis edged Houston 2-1, and Los Angeles at New York and San Diego at Philadelphia were rained out.

In the American League, Cleveland edged Kansas City, 2-1; Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox, 5-2; Minnesota beat the Yankees, 4-2; Oakland swept a twin-nighter from Milwaukee, 10-2 and 3-0; and Boston slipped past California, 4-3.

A complete collapse by the Giants' defense in the sixth inning helped saddle Marichal with his fifth consecutive setback.

The Expos had nicked Marichal for a run in the third on John Boccabella's triple and Tim Foli's sacrifice fly and another in the fourth on Boots Day's RBI single, before scoring four times in the sixth with the help of four San Francisco errors.

Bob Bailey opened the sixth with a single and went to third when Marichal fielded Mike Jorgensen's bunt and threw the ball into center field. Ron Fairly then lofted a fly ball to center field. Bailey held third, but Jorgensen went to second when Dave Kingman bobbled Ken Henderson's relay throw.

After Ken Singleton was purposely passed, Day hit a grounder to second baseman Tito Fuentes. Fuentes booted the ball into right field, allowing all three runners to score. Day then came home on an error by shortstop Chris Speier.

Meanwhile, Mike Torrez checked the Giants on nine scattered hits for his second victory in two decisions, lowering his ERA to 1.40 in 25 2-3 innings.

Chicago's Ferguson Jenkins, winner of at least 20 games in each of the past five seasons, hiked his record to 3-2, stopping Cincinnati on five hits. He lost his shutout on Johnny Bench's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth.

Earlier, Glenn Beckert and Jim Hickman drove in two runs apiece for the Cubs and Rick Monday collected four hits, including a homer.

Dock Ellis, making his first appearance since being sprayed with mace in Cincinnati last Friday night during an incident involving a stadium guard, worked seven innings and combined with Bruce Kison for a six-hitter in Pittsburgh's victory over Atlanta.

They got support from homers by Willie Stargell and Dave Cash.

Former Astro Scipio Spinks pitched a six-hitter for St. Louis in stopping his ex-Houston teammates.

Helms Hall Elects Volney C. Ashford

MARSHALL, Mo. — Volney C. Ashford, for 31 years athletic director at Missouri Valley College here has been elected to the Helms Athletic Hall of Fame. Announcement of the selection was made Wednesday by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics. The award will be presented this summer in Las Vegas at the Association's annual convention.

This is the second time Ashford has been honored by election to the Hall of Fame. He was first inducted in 1959 in the coaches category for his legendary gridiron teams.

Ashford, who continues to serve Missouri Valley as vice-president for development, graduated from the college in 1931 and stayed on for one year as assistant coach. After five years at Harrisonville High School, he returned to his alma mater in 1937. Except for Navy duty during World War II, he served continually as athletic director from 1937 until June, 1971, when he relinquished his athletic duties to direct the college's fund-raising efforts.

Still Fighting Hard

Paralyzed Wrestler Retains Willpower

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Ray Murphy can't forget April 11, 1970.

The former Oklahoma State wrestling star, then a graduate student, was competing in an independent wrestling tournament.

"I got picked up and put down on the side of my head," Murphy recalls.

He has spent the last two years in bed—paralyzed from the neck down—because of the accident.

"I was never unconscious. After they got me to the hospital, they doped me up pretty good, but I remember pretty much what went on."

Murphy fought hard to get onto the wrestling team at OSU and wound up his collegiate career with a second-place finish in the 145-pound weight division of the NCAA Tournament in 1969.

But he's battling a bigger fight now.

"A lot of things that didn't seem important before do now," he says.

Like walking.

"Anything," he said with a smile. "Just breathing."

He can breathe by himself for only two hours at a time. The rest of his time is spent with a respirator machine.

But even that's progress.

"That started from nothing," Ray Murphy Sr., his father, noted.

Wentworth Wins State Fair Dual

Wentworth Military Academy captured a dual golf meet over State Fair Community College, 250-300.

Medalist honors went to Wentworth's Bruce Kelso, who fired a 79. The top SFCC score in their final meet of the season was Craig Jung with a 96.

Results

Wentworth (250) — Bruce Kelson 79, Mark Welsh 82, Bob Brewer 89, State Fair (300) — Craig Jung 96, Jerry Webb 103, John Knapp 103.

"They said the longest anyone had lived with the breathing machine was 12 months. Then they started talking about 18 months, then 24 months."

"He has broken all the known records for breathing. So maybe he'll break the others."

Many who never heard of Ray before have joined his fight.

Somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000 has been raised to defray Ray's medical expenses—thought to be around $100,000 so far.

"We don't know how much money has been raised. We have no personal involvement in that," his father says.

Yastrzemski Hurts Knee During California Game

ANAHEIM (AP) — Even when they win, the Boston Red Sox lose.

Rallying from a 3-0 deficit, the Sox caught California with three sixth-inning runs Tuesday night then beat the Angels on a pinch-hit single by Bob Burda in the eighth.

That was Boston's first triumph in four games and only No. 2 in the last nine games.

But Carl Yastrzemski, the super star outfielder, severely twisted his right knee while scoring the first Boston run of the game in the sixth. His spikes caught in the shin guard of California catcher Art Kush-nyer and he was forced to leave the game.

"I twisted the heck out of it," Yastrzemski said after the game. "It's pretty wobbly right now but I can't tell how bad it is. We'll have to see about it tomorrow."

Yastrzemski, the highest paid player in the American League with an annual salary of $165,000, was to be examined today by Dr. Jules Rasinski, the Angel team physician.

Throughout his brilliant career, Yaz has managed to avoid serious injury.

"I don't think I've missed more than 15 games in the last seven years," he said.

Nets Square ABA Playoffs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The home court advantage doesn't seem to mean much to the New York Nets and the Indiana Pacers.

The Nets tied it here Tuesday night with a 117-115 victory over the Pacers. The victory came despite a scorching rally in which Indiana scored 16 straight points.

will be any more for New York that it was for Indiana. Pacer coach Bob Leonard said, "We're going to have to go out there and win a ball game or two. It's a five-game series."

Kewpies Scare S-C Thinclads

COLUMBIA — Smith-Cotton's track team got their closest scare of the season Tuesday in dual competition in a meet with Columbia Hickman. But the Tigers managed to pull out a 78-63 victory, keeping their dual record unblemished.

One record was broken in the varsity competition. That came in the two-mile relay event which opened the meet.

C. E. Baldwin, Carl Berry, Robert Mayes and Steve Cable combined for a time of 8:15.4, shaving an even four seconds off the old standard set in 1971.

The junior varsity Tigers, who had a much easier time in their meet with the Kewpies, winning by the score of 88-54.

A total of four javayee standards tumbled in that competition.

Impossible To Determine Cage Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two economists said Tuesday it was impossible to determine how much profit a professional basketball team is making without more detailed information on the club owner.

"Because of the differences in practice among teams in how the owners take their profits, and because of the difficulties with the data, the stated book profit figures are virtually meaningless," Roger Noll and Benjamin Okner told the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

Appearing briefly to answer questions on testimony given last week, the economists, on leave from the Brookings Institution, said an owner's salary and the use of an automobile, if provided by the club, should be looked on as part of a team's profits.

Cole Camp, Warsaw Meet in Showdown

Twenty-seven of the twenty-eight Kaysinger Conference baseball games have been played, and the only thing that has been decided is that Stover and LaMonte have captured a share of the second-place honors.

But shortly there'll be one more joining those two. Bob Farrington at Cole Camp hopes it's Warsaw and Galen Davis at Warsaw hopes it's Cole Camp.

Those two teams, both of whom have 5-1 slates in the Kaysinger Conference baseball race, tangle in Cole Camp at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the final and deciding game in the league baseball race.

But things in the girls softball race are already decided — at least at the top, where

They came in the two-mile relay (Barnes, Bellmer, Buehn, Lovercamp) 8:43.0, the 880-yard run (Roger Fingland) 5:10 and the pole vault (Smith) 11-0.

In addition to the two-mile relay, the varsity Tigers won first in the 120 high hurdles (Fred Washington), the mile (C. E. Baldwin), the shot put (Aaron Hartt), the 180 low hurdles (Fred Washington), the 880 (Robert Mayes), the two-mile run (David Moore), the discus (Aaron Hartt) and the triple jump (Bob Fingland).

The Tigers will next see action in the Missouri State High School Activities Association's district outdoor meet, Saturday in Mexico.

In addition to the Tigers, teams from Columbia, Fulton, Hannibal, Jefferson City, Kirksville, Marshall, Moberly and Mexico will vie for places in the state finals.

Northwest (Hughesville) and Stover have completed their seasons with 6-1 conference records.

A win for the Cole Camp girls would push their record above the .500 mark at 4-3, and earn their share of third place.

Warsaw's softball squad has been successful on only one of their six outings this season.

Monday's game between Warsaw and Cole Camp was originally scheduled for Saturday, but was changed Tuesday.

Giants Want Players

Mays Trade May Be Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays apparently won't be coming to New York after all—at least not in a New York Mets uniform.

The Mets said Tuesday that the San Francisco Giants' asking price was simply too high. "They want players, not money," said M. Donald Grant, the Mets' board chairman. "I told them it was improbable the Mets could provide the personnel they need."

Thus the rumored prospective deal for one of baseball's superstars was cooled in a day.

The Giants reportedly asked for infielder Ted Martinez and one of two pitchers, either John Matlack or Jim McAndrew. The Mets wanted to give the Giants money instead of players.

Grant, however, did not completely close the door on a possible trade.

"I asked Giant owner Horace Stoneham to set up a meeting with Mays, himself, and our people," Grant said. "He promised to do so. He said he will call me as soon as he reaches Mays. So, I won't know anything until Wednesday."

Grant said that he "wanted to make sure that Mays wants to come here. The most important thing to be developed before any further talks are Willie's reaction to coming to the Mets and the conditions attached to such a move."

Mays said he wouldn't mind closing out his playing career in New York, but was annoyed at the way the situation has been handled.

"I don't want to embarrass

Stallworth Receives Phog Allen Award

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The Forrest C. Allen Award for the most valuable player for the season has been awarded to Bud Stallworth, captain and leading scorer of the past season's Kansas basketball squad.

Stallworth is the fifth player to receive the award, named in honor of the former Jayhawk coach. He signed a professional contract recently with the Seattle SuperSonics.

SFCC Closes Season With 13-2 Victory

State Fair Community College closed out their jumbled baseball schedule with a 13-2, five-inning win over St. Paul's College of Concordia, Tuesday afternoon, in Liberty Park.

Starter Don Madole picked up his third victory of the season in the rout, which was the eighth win in the last 10 outings for the Roadrunners. Their final-season slate reads 8-19.

Bob Matthews, Mike

Robertson, Randy Kidwell and Jim Coffelt combined for nine rbi in the game, as State Fair batted around in the second and the fourth innings.

SFCC scored six in the second and five more in the fourth.

It was a two-hitter for Madole, who gave up both hits in the fifth, when the Blue Jays chased in both their runs.

Stan Smith Scrambles To Win Match

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Stan Smith stumbled through two sets at the start of his British tennis campaign before settling down to take command in the first round of the British Hard Courts championships.

Smith had to go to 7-5 to beat Alan McDonald in the first set, then lost the second 7-5. But America's hope for the Wimbledon crown then found his form and finished off the former Australian junior champion 6-0, 6-3 Tuesday.

While the men played their rain-delayed first round, the women moved into the second round, with Wimbledon queen Evonne Goolagong of Australia an easy 6-1 6-4 victor over Maria Guzman of Ecuador.

Britain's top-ranked women's player, Virginia Wade, ousted Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., 6-0, 6-0 in another second-round match, but Winnie Shaw, another Briton, forfeited to Mrs. Jaime Pinto-Bravo of Chile at 5-1 of the first set.

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., defeated Laura Rousouw of South Africa 6-3, 6-0 and fifth-ranked Jim Connors of Belleville, Ill., advanced with a hard-fought 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 triumph over Stephen Warboys, teen-age member of the British Davis Cup squad.

River Festival Boasts Variety

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Musical events ranging from the Glenn Miller orchestra to the Blood, Sweat & Tears rock group will be featured this summer at the Mississippi River Festival.

The Festival includes 28 concerts, beginning July 8 on the campus of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville. This year's program was unveiled Monday at a meeting in downtown St. Louis.

The St. Louis Symphony will kick off the River Festival. The symphony will be featured in 12 concerts.

Other highlights include folk singer Kris Kristofferson, July 11; the Glenn Miller Orchestra of Buddy De Franco July 21; singer Don McLean July 25; Blood, Sweat & Tears August 2; jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald August 4; and the Fifth Dimension August 11.

In Ranks

Private Farran C. Bryan, U.S. Marine Corps, is presently home on leave after completing 11 weeks of basic training at San Diego, Calif.

Bryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest C. Bryan, Star Route, Smithton. He will report to Camp Pendleton, Calif., for basic infantry training for a period of four weeks. After completing school he will work in the Combat Arms field.

Michael E. Semkin, 18, 1817 South Kentucky, a senior at Smith-Cotton High School, has enlisted in the U.S. Navy and will report to the recruit training depot in San Diego, Calif., June 9.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos E. Semkin, Lawrence, Kan.

Busing Opponents Win Board Seats

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A slate of candidates which opposed busing of school children for racial purposes has won all seven seats on the Indianapolis School Board.

Three hundred pupils are being bused in Indianapolis to achieve racial balance out of total enrollment of 105,000.

However, a U.S. District Court judge has ruled the public school system has practiced segregation through its administrative policies. The ruling is now being appealed in the 7th U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The unofficial results of the election Tuesday were announced Friday. The voting was nonpartisan. The slow count of paper ballots and court orders surrounding a razor-thin congressional race slowed the tabulating.

Land Reclamation Gains From Strip Mining

by BOB COOPER
Associated Press Writer

BEREA, Ky. (AP) — Almost everything man does damages the environment in which he lives. By concentrating on the worst damage of all—strip mining—the U.S. Forest Service is doing something about it.

For nearly 10 years, a small group of scientists, with headquarters at Berea College here, has been quietly seeking ways to control pollution and help reclamation in strip mining.

"Our work is centered on strip mining because it is by far the most damaging to the environment," project leader Grant Davis said. "But much of our findings could be used as well in other areas."

"Why don't you know that when a farmer plows a field he is causing pollution? And highway construction causes the exact same type of environment damage as strip mining," he said.

The research team, operating on a minibudget out of makeshift laboratories, sends most of its findings to divisions of reclamation in states where strip mining is a problem.

"The state agencies then use the material that we furnish to formulate their laws or regulations on strip mining," Davis said.

In addition, the Forest Service team produces brochures on methods that best will achieve the results demanded by the states. These are supplied indirectly to the mine operators.

Such research has prompted Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to call the Forest Service's work "the only effective federal research conducted in reclaiming contour strip-mined land."

Cooper made the appraisal in trying to boost the budget for the project from the current $330,000 a year to $1.5 million.

Davis is proud of the strides his team has made in the past, but warns that more research and effective demonstration is needed if a crisis is to be averted as the nation's energy needs are met.

Strip-mined coal, most widely used in electricity production, is obtained by chopping out huge wedges from a mountain-side, then scraping the coal from a seam that has been laid bare.

The Forest Service says as much as 10,000 square miles of earth could be laid barren in future years from surface mining.

Such operations destroy natural vegetation, create acid spoil that pollutes streams and, in some cases, cause huge slides that can bury homes on the slope beneath the mine.

To combat these problems, the research team concentrates its efforts on such fields as engineering, hydrology, soils, plant ecology, range science and forestry.

One of the projects the Forest Service team is continually studying is the construction of dams to hold sediment ponds that keep pollutants from flowing directly into nearby streams.

"We've also found that terracing the strip-mine bench and building sediment ponds on that level instead of down below will reduce the amount of sediment released," Davis said.

"If all of these things are done, pollution can be kept to a minimum, and if we plant the right thing at the right time, revegetation can be accomplished," he added.

Original Drama Is Well Done

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Original drama, particularly the drama of ideas, has become in the past few seasons just about the rarest sight on television. "Particular Men," the first of a series on the Public Broadcasting stations, reminded us Monday night of the void.

Moring Mandel's two-hour drama seemed to be a delayed emotional reaction to the horror of atomic power, the dilemma of the wartime scientists who created it and the almost hysterical fear of communism during the late 1940s. It was the story of an introspective, pipe-puffing scientist, whose personal life was as mixed up as were his emotions about the use of the killer-bomb he helped create.

The play made its point early and then wandered on for much too long, heaping flashback upon flashback, caricature upon caricature in confusing abundance. The acting, however, was great. Stacy Keach was utterly convincing as the remote and idealistic physicist confronted with an inquiry into his security clearance.

Mandel's script appeared to be more preachment than drama, more emotional than philosophical. It also had the advantages of more than two decades of hindsight.

Still for the serious-minded viewer, it was stimulating to be confronted with characters and ideas with which one could agree or disagree violently. Several more original dramas are coming along in the PBC summer schedule, a welcome interruption of the commercial networks' diet of reruns.

In ABC's half-hour special, "The Masks We Wear," Harry Reasoner and company took off on a light-hearted, optimistic investigation designed to explain the self-image of every individual—why middle-aged men are wearing their hair longer, why women like bikinis and why just about everybody is dieting.

The premise, using animation as well as film, was that our clothes, our manners and, to a lesser degree, our speech, are devices we use to present a face to the world that to some degree reflects the way we see ourselves.

Crux of the short program was contained in a witty bit of animation first showing a young executive sitting composedly at his desk—until his boss walked into the office. He dissolved into a small boy. Left some work, he shifted into a scowling man in a prisoner's stripes. Walking down the hall, he met a pretty girl and turned into a knight in armor. His advances rebuffed, he scurried away in the shape of an ass.

President Might Dedicate Stockton

STOCKTON, Mo. (AP) — President Nixon may make the dedication address in June at the Stockton Reservoir project.

The White House disclosed Sunday that Nixon is considering making the address and will make a decision soon. Republican Committeeman Gene Taylor of Sarcoxie, a candidate for the GOP nomination for Congress from the Seventh District, invited Nixon to Southwest Missouri.

Taylor plans to talk with Nixon further about coming here while he is in Washington early this week.

The Stockton Reservoir, one of the major federal projects in the four-state area in recent years, is a multi-million dollar project designed to provide power and recreation for area residents.

Egyptian Surprise

When Maurice Katz bought a load of unclaimed freight, he never expected to get an Egyptian mummy case. According to a Cleveland museum official the 21-inch mummy case was probably from the second century A.D. Egyptians and was used to mummify falcons in honor of Horus, the falcon god. (UPI)

Special Moscow School Educates Future Clowns

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — When the pupils start clowning around in class at the yellow brick school on Yamskovo Polya Street, it's probably part of the curriculum.

The school is the state Academy of Circus and Variety Arts. It's the only one in the Soviet Union and turns out virtually all the clowns, acrobats, jugglers and aerialists who perform in this country's 56 permanent big tops from Minsk to Vladivostok.

During its 43 years of operation, the school has produced such famous Russian clowns as Mikhail Rumyantsev (Class of '30), who used the name "Karandash" in his Chaplinesque routines, and Oleg Popov (Class of '49), currently a top attraction with the Moscow State Circus.

"Our school is unique not only in the Soviet Union but in the whole world," boasts its director, Alexander M. Voloshin, 65, who has spent 23 years on the school's faculty. He said other schools may teach circus skills but his is the only one which offers an all-round secondary education as well.

Russian youngsters may enter the school at around age 11 after completing four grades of a regular primary school. Voloshin said, and they stay at his school for seven years.

"They take all the subjects they would have in a normal school plus their specialty as a circus performer or a variety show artist," he added.

The academy also has a four year program for pupils who enroll after 8 or 10 years in a regular school. These teenagers usually study the comic arts of slapstick, pantomime and mimicry, Voloshin said, because they take less time to acquire than the precise skills and superb physical conditioning of a high-wire or trapeze aerialist.

Strolling through the school's corridors it is not unusual to see among students with text and notebooks other students rushing off to dress rehearsal with rouged cheeks and bulbous noses or wearing sequined leotards.

Voloshin said his 450 pupils spend about half their day in regular classrooms with academic subjects and the other half in the school's exercise halls, gymnasiums and main ring practicing their specialties.

In one classroom, a matronly teacher led a German recitation before a class of youngsters dressed in the traditional Soviet school uniform—gray suits and smocks, white shirts and blouses and red scarves.

Down the hall, a former Bolshoi ballerina coached a group of teen-agers dressed in shorts and leotards in a course called "musical rhythms," designed to teach pupils how to move gracefully, whether entering a ring or dangling from a trapeze.

In the main ring, a high-wire artist soon to graduate streaked across the wire on a unicycle. Acrobats, jugglers and clowns of varying ages practiced in a big exercise hall just off the main ring.

Because of its uniqueness and limited facilities—to be expanded next year with new dormitories and four more rings—the school is one of the most exclusive in the Soviet Union.

"This year there were 3,000 applications and only 80 people were accepted," Voloshin said. "Desire alone is not enough to enter our school. One must have certain qualifications."

He said a special state commission, all circus specialists, chooses those applicants who have the proper temperament, handsome facial features and the right weight and musculature for circus work.

The student's grades will determine where he will work in the Soviet Union. The most talented may get an early chance to travel abroad with the celebrated Moscow State Circus.

Others are assigned to circuses or variety theaters in the provinces.

Hunters Armed With Plastics

HONOLULU (AP) — Deer hunters on the Hawaiian island of Molokai go into the field armed with plastic bags as well as guns.

The bags are for use in a program aimed at getting the sparsely populated island off the list as the last area in the United States where cattle tuberculosis is active.

With instructions provided by the Hawaii State Game and Fish Division, hunters remove internal organs of the deer they kill and place them in the plastic bags.

The bags are turned over to the State Agriculture Department's veterinarian on the island, and he checks the organs for tuberculosis.

In the two years that the program has been in operation, the organs of 600 deer killed in public hunting areas have been checked and no tuberculosis has been found.

But several infected deer have been turned in by hunters shooting on private lands, so the examinations continue, although this year hunters are told the bagging program is optional.

Dr. Ernest H. Willers, head of the department's Division of Animal Industry, said the program involving deer is a key to eliminating tuberculosis from cattle on Molokai.

He said the state must prove there are no infected cattle on the island before Maui County, which includes Molokai and three other islands, can receive a modified accredited status in a national program for tuberculosis eradication.

The first recorded encounter with a northern lobster occurred when Capt. George Weymouth explored Maine's coastline in 1605.

Old Secrets Don't Die; They're Just Filed Away

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Old secrets never die, Congress has been told, they're just filed away.

The oldest is a World War I era secret, involving a so-called "contingency plan" for U.S. military action, keepers of America's historical records said Monday.

"It would have to be a very rare bird indeed that would still have to be classified from World War I," said Archivist James B. Rhoads.

The World War I contingency plan is part of an estimated 470 million pages of classified documents, including World War II and Korean War material, currently kept in the archives, federal-record centers and various presidential libraries. Rhoads told the House government information subcommittee.

The documents are not totally unavailable to researchers, since agencies can give people clearance to see some of the old files, although there is a good deal of bothersome paperwork involved, Rhoads said.

However, he said, starting June 1, when President Nixon's new executive order on document classification takes effect, there will be an end to "the time-consuming delays which so annoy researchers." Nixon's directive also will lead to opening significant amounts of fairly recent classified material, Rhoads added.

The new order provides for automatic declassification of documents that are 30 years old, but a department head can retain secrecy of "specifically identified" material, he said.

Nixon's order drew fire from Lloyd C. Gardner, chairman of Rutgers University's history department, who told the subcommittee the order could make information-access problems worse.

Gardner suggested having a law replace the order, and make the automatic declassification apply after 15 years instead of 30.

"If we are to wait for such a procedure as is envisioned in this executive order," he said,

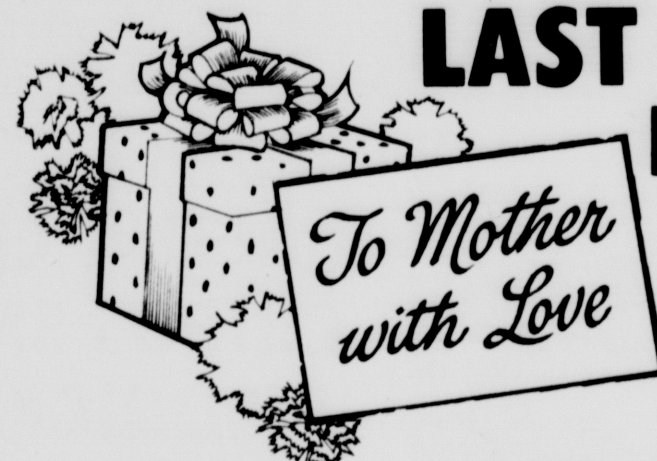

"we will all be dead before the history of the cold war can be written from official records. And our heirs will have less chance to profit from our mistakes, or to preserve an open society," Gardner said.

Mushroom Farming Thrives In Pennsylvania Woods

WORTHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The vast dark corridors of the old worked-out Worthington limestone mine resemble an eerie scene from a science fiction thriller.

Save for the hollow, faraway plops of dripping water, the silence is broken only by oddly dressed workers shuffling about with lamps beaming from their helmets. And revealed everywhere by the dancing lights are thousands of pale mushrooms poking their plump heads from the damp limestone floor.

This is the Butler County Mushroom Farm, said to be the world's largest subterranean agricultural operation. Its sole aim is to assuage man's palate. Ideal mushroom growth conditions prevail year-round here: Total darkness, high humidity and constant 56-degree temperature. And millions of the delicious off-white cookbook gems are harvested from the old mine annually.

The complex sprawls through 118 miles of corridors and 500 acres of rooms that slope 200 feet below the surrounding hills. It is twice the size of its sister farm at another limestone mine in nearby West Vinfield. Both are owned by Butler County Mushroom Farm, Inc. Together they employ 800 people and produce 35 million tons of mushrooms yearly.

Along with separately owned underground farms near Kennett Square in eastern Pennsylvania, they produce the largest cash crop in the state and 60 per cent of the nation's mushrooms.

There are three underground lunch rooms, well-lit and complete with tile floors, cafeteria tables, vending machines, rest rooms and telephones.

"The air is very fresh and it's a pleasant atmosphere to work in," said Bennett.

Livestock Price Hikes Boost Income

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for livestock and some other commodities are boosting prospects for a record $17.7 billion in net farm income this year, says the Agriculture Department.

The prediction, made Monday in a summary report on the demand-and-price outlook for farm products, represents a $2 billion gain from 1971 net income. Until now, economists have said the rise this year would be $1.5 billion to $2.0 billion.

"Farmers are earning more income this year," the report said. "Farm prices are averaging well above a year earlier despite large grain supplies."

"Continued strong consumer demand for red meat, coupled with a reduction in pork production, has caused substantial increases in average prices and receipts for livestock products," the report said.

Soybeans and cotton supplies, too, are under pressure from strong market demand, thus boosting prices for those items, officials said.

Over-all, the report said, gross farm receipts will rise about $4 billion this year, including grain sales, up $500 million; livestock $2.5 billion and government payments $1 billion.

Expenses, however, are expected to continue rising by about $2 billion, thus leaving farmers a net gain of around $2 billion for the year.

The report said grocery store food prices are expected to be up about 4.0 per cent for all of 1972 from last year's level. That is the same increase as predicted by USDA economists last February.

Farm exports for the year ending June 30 currently are expected to "approximate the record" of $7.8 billion set during the 1970-fiscal year, the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the 1971 corn crop was worth a record $6.9 billion to farmers, including government price support payments, despite sharply reduced market prices during the season.

Of the record 5.5 billion bushels harvested, according to an Economic Research Service report, farmers sold about 3.1 billion for a season average price of $1.08 per bushel for nearly $3.35 billion.

About 2.4 billion bushels of the 1971 crop was kept by producers for their own feeding operations and for seed, the report said.

When government price support payments were included, the average value of 1971 corn was $1.24 per bushel. Including the corn used on farms where produced, the total 1971 crop value was nearly $6.9 billion, the ERS said.

In 1970, when blight and drought held output to 4.1 billion bushels, the average season market prices was $1.33 per bushel. Including government payments, the total 1970 crop was worth slightly more than $6.0 billion, or $1.47 per bushel, the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher market prices helped boost the value of the 1971 cotton crop to nearly $1.44 billion, not counting government payments, the Agriculture Department announced Monday.

The season average price for all cotton produced last year was 28.62 cents per pound, compared with 21.98 for the 1970 crop. Total market value of 1970 production, not counting payments, was $1.12 billion.

Including government payments, 1971 cotton was worth $2.26 billion, compared with $2.01 billion for 1970 production, officials said.

Those figures did not include the value of cotton seed, put at $241.1 million for 1971, compared with $229.6 million for 1970.

Production of all cotton was 10,473,000 bales or an average yield of 438 pounds per acre, 3 per cent more than 1970 but revised downward 84,000 bales from the preliminary estimate.

Meat Inspection Study Initiated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A review of the Missouri meat inspection program was started Monday by the General Accounting Office.

The eight-week review has been undertaken to determine the U.S. Department of Agriculture's effectiveness in upholding the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, a spokesman for the office told KYTV News in Springfield, Mo.

During the next two months, three GAO auditors will conduct a 60-plant random survey of Missouri meat plants. Missouri was selected at random as part of the investigative agency's normal review functions, GAO officials said.

Pianists Play at 'Rent Party'

NEW YORK (AP) — Not since the days of Fats Waller and James P. Johnson, with the saucers on the pianos for the nickels, dimes and quarters in apartments in Harlem, has there been such a rent party.

Those old-time rent parties really were to help a family meet the rent. Early in the evening, the young and local talent would play and, after a professional gig, the legendary names such as Fats and James P. would drop by to help out.

The rent party on a recent Saturday night here was to help pay the rent on a festival of Afro-American and African music in Tangier next Sept. 1, 2 and 3. Pianist Randy Weston, who lives in Tangier and is putting together the festival, and pianist Brooks Kerr, who lives in a townhouse with fur pianos in it, gave the party.

It started, at 9 p.m., in the downstairs dining room, with Eubie Blake, 89, playing some of the songs he's written, such as "Memories of You," "I'm Just Wild about Harry," and "If You've Never Been Vamped by a Brown Skin."

Andy Bey began to sing and play blues in the library.

On the fourth floor, Dollar Brand played a stunning, textured set which included his composition, "Prayer."

At 11:30 p.m. Jaki Byard was in the dining room, having followed Neal Tate and Patti Bowen. A couple of bass players were sitting in here and there, carrying their basses up and down stairs, and the host was playing in the living room. Brooks Kerr has studied with Willie "the Lion" Smith, who was ill, and he played the Lion and Eubie Blake and—because it was a Fats Waller-type party, he played and sang a lot of Waller.

Don Shirley had to be coaxed to play, he said he'd just socialize, but he did, and beautifully, starting at 1:15 a.m. He started with a lyrical "Get Out of Town" and "I Cover the Waterfront," did "Come Ye Disconsolate," mixed "Bridge over Troubled Water" with "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," played "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," a composition by Bach and one by Duke Ellington, and "Drown in My Own Tears" and said, "Now we included them all."

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will, upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase, replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

| Tread Wear Expectancy | Tread Wearout Allowance |
|-----------------------|---------------------------|
| 40,000 miles..... | Pro-rated on Miles Driven |

Michael Ponti Soaring From Unknown Corners of German Music

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A new, unknown, American pianist has arrived in America, after spending half his life in the boondocks of Germany.

He is Michael Ponti, 34, balding and not especially romantic looking, but playing the music of the Romantic Revival, the 19th and early 20th century music written by composers who are forgotten or nearly forgotten, many of whom were also virtuoso pianists. Some critics say that Ponti plays this music with the bravura and style of a Horowitz.

Ponti was born in Germany. His father, an American of Italian descent, was in the U.S. Foreign Service. His mother is German. He grew up in Washington, D.C., and began piano lessons and recitals there. At 17 he went back to Germany with his family and "somehow just got stuck there."

He is a living example that bright talent can, even in this day of quick discoveries and rapid, transworld communications, be hidden for a long time under a bushel basket.

When Ponti made his New York debut recently, it was his first time in the country in 17 years. He was known to people who follow classical music through some recent recordings and some excited word of mouth. His recital was sold out—a rare thing for a debut. In a now-or-never gesture to get the attention on which to build a big international career—Ponti is unusually old to be making a New York concert debut—he listed 54 encores in the program and announced that he was ready to play all night. However, after a two-hour program in which he exhibited a dazzling technique and astounding speed, plus nine encores lasting an hour, he sensed that his audience was becoming tired and he bowed himself off the stage. He didn't play all night, but he certainly riveted attention on the pianistic skills and stamina of Michael Ponti.

Into The Limelight

Pianist Michael Ponti leans against a poster stand in New York's Lincoln Center which announces his recent New York debut recital. It was sold out, a rare thing for a debut, particularly since this was Ponti's first visit to the country after 17 years away. But he was known to people who follow classical music through some recent recordings and some excited word of mouth.

(AP)

So, how did Ponti remain hidden to the world for so long? He doesn't know. "It just sort of happened." On his 21st birthday he made his first major professional appearance, with the Frankfurt Radio Orchestra, on a day's notice, taking the place of Andor Foldes, who got sick, playing Beethoven's "Third Piano Concerto." That was well received and a booking agency signed him. From 1958 through 1964, they got him 150 concerts in West Germany. Ponti also went on USIS tours. "Some places had more cows than people." He took anything that was offered, unable to figure out how to go on to bigger things. "I started out way at the bottom," he says. "I got $10 per diem. I played in every little tank town. But it had its advantages. I was able to get experience."

Ponti worked up from $10 per diem, but not fast. "The thing is to survive and make some kind of living. I didn't want to teach and I haven't taught a note. If people asked me to play this or that, I would say, yes, I knew it, and learn it in a hell of a hurry."

"All the time I was also studying and practicing."

"I think the emotional part of music, getting something across to an audience, is much more important than note perfection. If you want note perfection, you can take a machine, have it computed and have a robot come out on stage and play."

"Still, you can't come out and miss all the notes. To have good technique you have to work. It doesn't come from not practicing. People ask how I can play so fast. Well, I wasn't born with this facility."

Now, Ponti is married, has three children and lives in Freiburg. "We live in a garden apartment. I was practicing Scriabin sonatas for the recording and the chickens in our chicken house quit laying. So RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., is being sued for divorce by his wife of 13 years, Mieke.

Records in Riverside County Superior Court showed Monday that Mrs. Tunney, 35, cited "irreconcilable differences" in her petition for a divorce from Tunney, 38.

She asked for custody of their three young children, half of their property, child support and alimony.

The senator issued a statement through his office in Washington saying he hoped for reconciliation.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nina Van Pallandt, the Danish singer who testified in the Clifford Irving-Howard Hughes affair, has been signed to costar in a film with Elliott Gould. It was announced Monday.

Miss Van Pallandt will play in "The Long Goodbye," a United Artists movie to be filmed in Los Angeles starting in June. The film is based on a Raymond Chandler detective story and will be directed by Robert Altman.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Betty Grable is under treatment for a duodenal ulcer and has cancelled an appearance in "No, No Nanette" in Melbourne, Australia.

A spokesman for Miss Grable, 55, said she would be released from St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica in a few days.

Cyd Charisse was named to replace Miss Grable in the Australian production. Miss Grable's manager said he thought she would be able to make the engagement in three or four months.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles might head for Harvard's Business School after he finishes the three years of Navy duty that he began last fall, the Daily Mail says.

The newspaper said the future king's parents recently discussed his future with him and his uncle, Earl Mountbatten, an influential figure behind the prince's education.

we killed them and ate them and I moved the piano into the chicken coop and practice out there now."

Another thing Ponti did in his early days in Germany was enter contests. He entered two dozen in six years, often coming in second, which doesn't help advance a career very much.

Ponti won one, the Busoni, in Italy, in 1964. He won $3,000 and 20 engagements in Italy. That did, however, launch him in Italy and he has played there every year since.

The break came, finally, when Vox Records decided to record music from the Romantic Revival and a friend of Ponti's suggested his name. "Vox asked if I knew the complete piano works of Rachmaninoff, Tchaikovsky and Scriabin and some others they wanted me to do I said, 'Oh, yes.' Actually I learned about 98 per cent of them from scratch."

The record led to reviews in music magazines and the beginning of fame. The Swedish maestro Sixten Ehrling conducted at a concert where Ponti was soloist and later took him to Stockholm for concerts. Now Ehrling is conductor of the Detroit Symphony and he invited Ponti there. The pianist seized the opportunity to give a New York concert on his way to Detroit.

At Home At Keyboard

His place at the piano and long hours of practice are the secrets of Michael Ponti's facility as a pianist. Ponti, pictured in New York, is American, grew up in Washington but has lived in Germany for the past 17 years. And while he's performed often in Europe he's remained relatively unknown in this country. Now his recent New York debut has given American listeners a chance to hear his bravura rendering of music of the Romantic Revival. (AP)

On the basis of these appearances and a very few others, booked practically at the last minute, there will be a Michael Ponti tour of the United States next season.

Shoshones Gain Windfall From Government For Lands Lost to U.S.

Wind River Windfall

Anna Shoio chops firewood near the three-roomed house where she lives with her family on the Wind River Reservation, Wyo. The Shoios, and all the tribe, will each receive $2,400 during the year — their shares of land compensation payments. The Shoios are talking about putting a little addition on to the house, and maybe fixing the insulation. Most importantly, for the Shoshones the money represents a chance to get ahead. (AP) when President Nixon signed into law a bill authorizing the claims to the Wind River Shoshones, the Shoshone-Bannocks of Idaho and the Northwestern Shoshones in Utah.

The three tribes had been bickering for more than three years about the funds, which were approved in 1968 by the Indian Claims Commission. The tribes were awarded some $1.5 million for the lands in 1968, but filed claims for additional compensation shortly after World War II.

The Wind River Shoshones will distribute 85 per cent of their $6,545,000 to tribal members with the other 15 per cent going to the six-member Tribal Business Council for use in Interior Department-approved projects. The 85-15 per cent ratio is the same used for distribution of other tribal funds.

"Of course, the people were very happy to finally receive the payments," said Larry Murray, a Business Council member. "Some of the older ones had felt it wouldn't happen until they were dead."

The Business Council will receive approximately $1 million as its share of the claims payments and will use $750,000 of that to establish a tribal-run loan program.

The Shoshone Business Council also will use part of its funds for a land-purchase program. Individual tribal members owning heirship land sometimes sell the property, which then is held in trust by the BIA. The tribe then can purchase the land and lease it back to individual Shoshones for farming or ranching.

Murray said educational opportunities for young reservation Indians are improving, "although the drop-out rate is still high."

The two tribes now budget $75,000-$80,000 per year for college scholarships.

"I've seen the tribes take more and more interest in education," said Hobbs. He said latest figures showed 83 mem-

Clyde Hobbs, BIA reservation supervisor for the past 10½ years, said he didn't notice a great deal of difference when Shoshones received their first land-payment checks.

Hobbs said 25 Shoshones left their funds with the BIA to draw interest, while banks in the nearby non-reservation community of Lander reported tribal members opened nearly 50 new checking and savings accounts in the first week after receiving the checks.

Although many Shoshones purchased a wide variety of consumer goods, including appliances and autos, businesses in Lander reported no major increase in sales.

The long-awaited payments finally became a reality Dec. 22

Day's First Task

Putting up the flag is one of Harrison Shoio's jobs, as a repair-maintenance employee for the Bureau of Indian Affairs at Fort Washakie, Wyo. The job earns him a modest income in addition to the $50 he and each of his family, as Shoshone Indians, usually receive in monthly tribal payments. (AP) bers of the two tribes were enrolled in college and another 30 in vocational schools.

"This is three times as many as when I came here," he said. But the opportunities for college graduates are extremely limited on the reservation, and many who obtain degrees don't return.

Hobbs said of the 5,058 enrolled members of the two tribes, about 1,000 don't live on the reservation. However, they still receive tribal payments and are sharing in the land-claim funds.

Other than agriculture, the opportunities on the reservation are few.

"There is no money to build large plants on the reservation," Murray said. "In the year I've been on the council there was only one serious attempt to attract an industry, and that fell through."

The reservation also is rich in natural resources and has unexploited reserves of coal, gypsum and phosphate in addition to oil and gas.

Of the Shoshone tribe's projected 1972 income of $1,686,400, which doesn't include the land-claim payments, $1.5 million will come from oil and gas royalties and $82,400 from leasing land for sand and gravel production.

FORT WASHAKIE, Wyo. (AP) — Half covered by snow, the purple-hued Wind River Range of the Rocky Mountains rises majestically above the three-room frame home of Harrison Shoio.

Shoio, 45, was born near these mountains and probably will die here.

Nine members of his family live in the house, which lies on 20 acres of land near the base of the mountains. Temperatures frequently plunge below zero during the cold Wyoming winters, and Shoio says his house isn't well insulated.

Shoio is a full-blooded member of the Eastern Band of Shoshone Indians who live on the Wind River Reservation.

Until recently he was in no position even to think about needed repairs to his dwelling. Shoio's income amounted to the $50 each he, his wife and their three school-age children received in monthly tribal payments, plus the modest income he earns as a repair-maintenance employee for the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Irving Wallace To Cover Politics

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Wallace's parents bought him a typewriter when he was 13, he sold his first short story when he was 15, and now at 56 he's writing best-sellers on that same typewriter.

Wallace, a heavy-set, talkative man, says, "I've written just about everything. I've never done anything but write. I guess that's unique, but it's also been good for me since writing is the last bastion of independence. It's the only place left where you don't have a boss."

The writer, who has published 15 books, among them "The Chapman Report," "The Prize," and his latest "The Word," says with a laugh that "the moment you have a book that sells 15,000 copies in hardcover you become a property. Once you become a property you can be independent. There are only a handful of writers in the world like this. Men who can make a living solely on their books."

Speaking softly but forcefully, Wallace says he has been supporting himself by writing since 1938, "although at the beginning it was on a real poverty level. I've had my rough times."

"When I was 13 my parents knew I wanted to be a writer so they bought me a rebuilt typewriter. It's the same machine I'm using today. I must have spent a couple of thousand dollars or more keeping that machine in condition. But, then, I'm very comfortable with it."

Wallace published four books "before I hit it big with my fifth, 'The Chapman Report,' in 1960. It became a big international book. But it was just a stroke of luck. There is no formula for a best-seller."

The Los Angeles-based writer says he got the idea for his newest novel, "The Word," about 10 years ago. The book deals with the discovery of an allegedly new gospel written by James, the younger brother of Jesus, the effects of the discovery on the world, and efforts to prove the authenticity of the gospel.

"I've always been curious about great historical figures," Wallace says, "and one day I remembered a poll I'd read. The poll asked newsmen to pick what they thought would be the biggest story of our time and they voted for the return of Jesus Christ to earth and the visibility of him as a human being.

"So I decided to write a book that would be about the finding of evidence to prove that Jesus lived and was not fable. I'd done a lot of research, but then I decided I'd have to learn a lot more to make my book credible. I spent about 10 years digging. Not fulltime, of course, but always picking up bits and pieces."

"About a year ago I went over all my stuff, absorbed it and sat down to write. The book went through six drafts. Or seven solid hours a day, six days a week for a year."

"I plan to cover the political conventions for about 110 newspapers," he says. "I'll be doing a daily story—giving a novelist's eye view of what is happening."

"I consider that a vacation."

Gregory The Goose Kidnaped

OTTAWA, Kan. (AP) — Gregory, the well-known goose, was kidnaped—or goosenaped—recently by some college students, causing great worry for his owners, the D. L. Salsbury family.

The 4-year-old gander once drew newspaper coverage and national television exposure because he fell in love with the Salsbury car when he was 8 months old.

"The goose is very possessive with the car and protects it," explained Mrs. Salsbury. "I have to pen him up before I can drive the car."

When Gregory disappeared, the Salsburys called police, then made their own search.

"We drove up and down the streets around here honking for him," Mrs. Salsbury said. When the car horn honks, the goose always answers.

Gregory's fame was the cause of his disappearance. Some fraternity members at the University of Kansas in Lawrence, 27 miles away, wanted ducks and geese as decorations for a spring formal dance. A student from Ottawa remembered Gregory and the bird was snatched.

Mrs. Salsbury said some frat brothers returned Gregory and apologized for causing worry.

SAIGON (AP) — An eerie calm prevails in the bustling villages and market towns around Saigon.

Extensive visits to the half dozen provinces surrounding the South Vietnamese capital indicate it is not an immediate target.

But for the first time in several years the North Vietnamese Army—the NVA—has almost free rein over the Cambodian provinces to the west and the unpopulated jungles to the North that have been the traditional staging areas for attacks on Saigon.

The enemy's intentions are just not known. All is guess work. Since the big reduction in American forces, there has been a great setback in the gathering of intelligence.

Whatever the timetable, American advisers and South Vietnamese officials in the protective belt of provinces around Saigon feel confident they can ring the alarm bells when the enemy makes his move.

While the militia forces seem well geared to alert Saigon a massive infiltration attempt, they are no match for regular North Vietnamese infantry and sophisticated weaponry. The enthusiasm of the militiamen is new, but their little outposts look like relics of the days long ago when the local Viet Cong fought with homemade shotguns and punji stakes.

The big question mark in case of a conventional attack on Saigon is whether the government has the reserves available and the ability to commit them immediately.

"At the time of the Tet offensive (in 1968) we had 49 American infantry battalions available to rescue Saigon," said an American adviser. "Now they're all gone."

At this very moment, almost all national reserve troops—the airborne and marine divisions—are committed to the northern battlefields. Many of them are taking crippling casualties.

Some of the troops always stationed around Saigon are tied up in the stalemated siege of An Loc, 60 miles north of the capital. Holding out in An Loc is being presented as a victory for the South Vietnamese Army.

The weak spots in Saigon's defenses are obvious to the Americans who have been here repeatedly over the years and look beyond the last village outposts that are now the outer defenses of the capital.

One colonel who fought as a captain 10 years ago along the Saigon River has walked over this same battleground numerous times since then.

"I just flew over a couple of bunkers that we tried to blow up on New Year's night 1968," he said. "When I was back with the U.S. 1st Division we bulldozed the place. I just saw the bunkers right back in the same spot, but the trouble is no friendlies ever go near them now."

He put his hand on the map, pointing to a 15-mile-wide swath of unpopulated, scrubby terrain between the Michelin rubber plantation and the district town of Ben Cat.

"I just can't understand what the South Vietnamese are doing. The NVA can march abreast in columns and sing on their way to Saigon, and we wouldn't even know it until they run into the villagers. We should be fighting them up here and not among the people."

Like most other American officers, he feels that a great mistake is being made in not patrolling and searching the hinterlands of the war zones.

All the advantages that were gained by the American invasion of Cambodia in 1970 were lost when the last of the Saigon troops were thrown out of eastern Cambodia two weeks ago. Now, by not patrolling in depth, the South Vietnamese have yielded the Communists old war zone sanctuaries.

District chiefs have been ordered to prepare for conventional warfare, a North Vietnamese invasion rather than hit-and-run guerrilla actions. Some troops are being trained to use antitank weapons. Plans have been drawn up to mass the Popular Force platoons and Regional Force companies into larger military formations under a central command.

What upsets many Vietnamese, especially military officers, more than the potential enemy threat from the nearby jungles and Cambodia is the continuously bad news from the northern fronts.

No panic is noticeable. The annual Route One bicycle race was held last week over what was left of the highway.

Helicopters Help in Log Salvage Operations

By RAY SCHRICK
The Wenatchee World
Written for Associated Press

ENTIAT, Wash. (AP) — A yellow helicopter that once shuttled passengers between Los Angeles International Airport and downtown is being used to log the fire-scarred Entiat Valley.

Now the giant bird carries a 150-foot cable, hauling about four tons of logs each run.

The operation marks the first helicopter logging in fire-killed timber in the United States, Forest Service officials said, although helicopters have been used in normal logging.

Harvesting the flame-charred timber will salvage much of the unburned wood, reduce the potential fire hazard and improve the reforestation effort, said Entiat District Ranger Bob Benson.

Officials also said the aerial operation, if it proves out, will do less damage to the environment than do other methods.

The experiment is located about 25 miles northwest of here, where firemen fought for weeks to corral the flames which swept thousands of acres in 1970. Entiat is 17 miles north of Wenatchee in the Cascade mountains.

Since tractors aren't needed to haul out the timber, there are few road scars, officials said.

The terrain also is so steep, Benson said, that without helicopters or some aerial logging method, erosion and other problems would prohibit any logging at all in much of the area.

But the program has its drawbacks too, he said. There is the high cost of helicopter operation, even though the logs themselves come cheaply—fifty cents a thousand board feet compared to $2 to $3 by conventional methods.

Insurance on the Sikorsky S61 costs $75,000, and said its owner, Frank Carson of Carson Helicopter Co. He said the craft costs $500,000 and burns about 160 gallons of jet fuel an hour.

And there are logistical problems.

"It's a stop-watch operation," Benson said.

"Dropping military cargo is Sunday afternoon flying compared to this," pilot Bob Boyd, a former military chopper pilot, said.

Not only must the pilots thread the 150-foot cable down through the trees, Boyd said, but the "hookers on the ground also must make quick decisions on each load."

If it's too heavy, the helicopter won't lift it, and if it's too light, the operation won't make money, he said.

Nevertheless, Carson said he sees a big future for helicopter logging "when you save the cost of building a half million dollars in roads that would be required for conventional logging."

Soapbox Oratory Makes Brooklyn Inroads in Free Speech Movement

By RICHARD E. MEYER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Hyde Park West? Berkeley East? No towers of Westminster in the distance, or Marble Arch. Instead, 42nd Street, with its ladies—"Can you pay $20?"—and cinema fare—"Erotica USA." No Campanile or Sproul Hall Plaza, with its Ludwig Fountain bubbling near Sather Gate and denim-clad students carrying books. Just travelers, commuters, mostly in gray business suits, with briefcases and neatly folded newspapers.

But it has a free speech movement all its own. An unlikely place, in a way, the Port Authority Bus Terminal, for considerations political, social and religious. A bit prosaic, hardly lofty. But a very likely place, in another way, particularly if the purpose is to make a pitch: 230,000 potential converts to any size and shape of cause, creed or contention trudge its terrazzo concourse every day, making it the busiest commuter bus station in the world.

And one of the world's best soapboxes. "Legalize marijuana!" yells a young, slightly shaggy man. "Defend your right to get high." At his elbow, an older man, gray-thatched, booming, "Drugs are evil spirits—To eight front doors, but ahead of the first bank of escalators—go first-come, first-serve.

No one may solicit funds. Soliciting is reserved for what Mayer calls "can shakers"—representatives of legal charities, approved by the Port Authority public affairs department.

"Can shakers" are few. "Free speakers" are many.

"But we've had very little trouble," says Mayer, who is 48 and commutes by car. "The Jewish Defense League and the group that used to be the Nazi party, the old Lincoln Rockwell group, don't seem to get along too well. Just too basic, long-standing differences and bad experiences on both sides. But we've never had any substantial riots of any type. There's been some pushing and shoving, but that's as far as it's gone. They learn to live with each other."

They have to. Mayer's list of current and recent permit holders resembles a delicate mix of explosives. "The Young Lords ... Irish Republican Clubs ... Black Muslims ... War Tax Resistance ... People Organized to Smoke ... The Spartacists ... Nubian Islamic Hebrew Mission ... Morality in Media ... Military Legal Center ... Citizens Committee for

Rush Hour Revival

Dan Dillon, left, clasps two friends in impromptu prayer in the midst of the evening rush hour on the main concourse of the Port of New York

Authority bus terminal. Dillon, 22, is one of many of the terminal's "free speakers" who hand out Bible tracts to commuters. (AP) in the swirl of people. The other, in Levis and black boots, takes a quarter from a gray-haired lady with a long coat. The lady tucks the paper under her arm. The Panther drops the quarter into a carpenter's apron around her waist. Then her partner reappears.

"We're not allowed to give out any information to news reporters ... Black Panther paper here! Check it out! ... Because we're not allowed to, that's all. You print lies, all lies."

Overhead, in the center of the concourse, the two-foot hands on a square, four-faced clock say 1:45 p.m. A bald man with a briefcase focuses on the first step of the escalator, then lurches up. Heels tap on the terrazzo, in and out of syncope.

From inside the crowd, a baby cries.

Music, barely audible over the noise, stops. A woman's voice with a tape-recorded quality announces: "Continental Trailways to Moorestown, Camden and Philadelphia, loading Gate 17; Continental Trailways five-star service to Washington, loading Gate 7; Adirondack Trailways to Albany, Schenectady, Amsterdam, Johnstown and Grovesville ...

"I don't dislike the Panthers," says Don Crowell, 39, volunteer for the John Birch Society. Displayed on his card table, against the wall, are leaflets, "Red China Pushes Drugs," "When the Communists Liberated America," pamphlets, "History of the Satanic Peace Symbol," "New Education—The Radicals Are After Your Children," booklets, "The Bankers—Conspiratorial Origins of The Federal Reserve," and books, "None Dare Call it Conspiracy." They are priced from a few cents to a few dollars.

"I just don't like what the Panthers are doing. I've tried to get them to read some things, but they're programmed," Crowell is a former television and water softener salesman from Summit, N.J. "A small income makes it possible for me to be here four or five days a week." He doesn't talk to the Panthers much. "There's not much to talk about. We know what they're doing."

A young man in blue corduroys and an Army jacket stops, looks at Crowell's pamphlets and says: "You seem to think communism is out to take over the world."

"They're the ones who say so," Crowell replies, sensing a challenge. He quotes from Lenin, Stalin.

"You mean to tell me Nixon is controlled by the Communist conspiracy?"

"No, he's working with them."

The young man licks his blond moustache. He peers at Crowell for a moment, then starts citing evidence that Richard M. Nixon is anti-Communist.

"Wait," says Crowell. "Let me take notes. I might learn something."

The young man's voice rises. "Alger Hiss?" Crowell interrupts. "You know where Alger Hiss is right now? He's on a government pension."

Now the young man is angry. "I think it's an American paranoia that communism is taking over everything."

A woman, apparently his mother, tugs at the young man's elbow. "We've got to be going, Joe."

"There isn't any evidence," says Crowell, "that Nixon's anti-Communist."

"No evidence!"

"No, there isn't any evidence."

The young man shrugs and walks off. The woman scolds him. They melt back into the crowd. "There are arguments, yes," says James W. Kane, a Port Authority policeman for more than a year. "Just by being present, we deter them. Usually it's someone on the outside who comes in with a contrary view. Not the commuter. He doesn't have time. When they swear and holler, they draw a crowd. I can't remember an instance of blows. It happens, but seldom."

Crowell, slacks pressed, thin black tie knotted tightly at his collar—he could be somebody's high school history teacher—lectures for a moment: "The biggest promoter of communism has not been Russia or er." Then a bottle of grape juice.

Victor A. Pixley, 51, preaches the "Natural Hygiene Unfermented Gospel." Around the grape juice, he places booklets: "Food Combining Made Easy," "Health for the Millions," "Pasteur—Plagiarist, Imposter." Then, on the music stand, he puts a sheaf of cards, about 12-by-16 inches, with hand lettered verses.

With a carney's voice, he barks:

"How do you do, everybody. How do you do. Practice hygiene so you cannot get the flu. If you don't want to be sick don't let the doctor stick his vaccination needle into you."

Walter chimes in: "Legalize marijuana! Defend your right to get high!"

And they alternate in a growing cacophony. "The King James Bible version

They say is mighty fine. But it doesn't tell us much About unfermented wine. We are living in an age Of fermented wine abuse. Perhaps because that Bible Does not mention grape juice."

"Sign our petition to legalize marijuana."

"All drug use is body abuse When used in the live bod-ee."

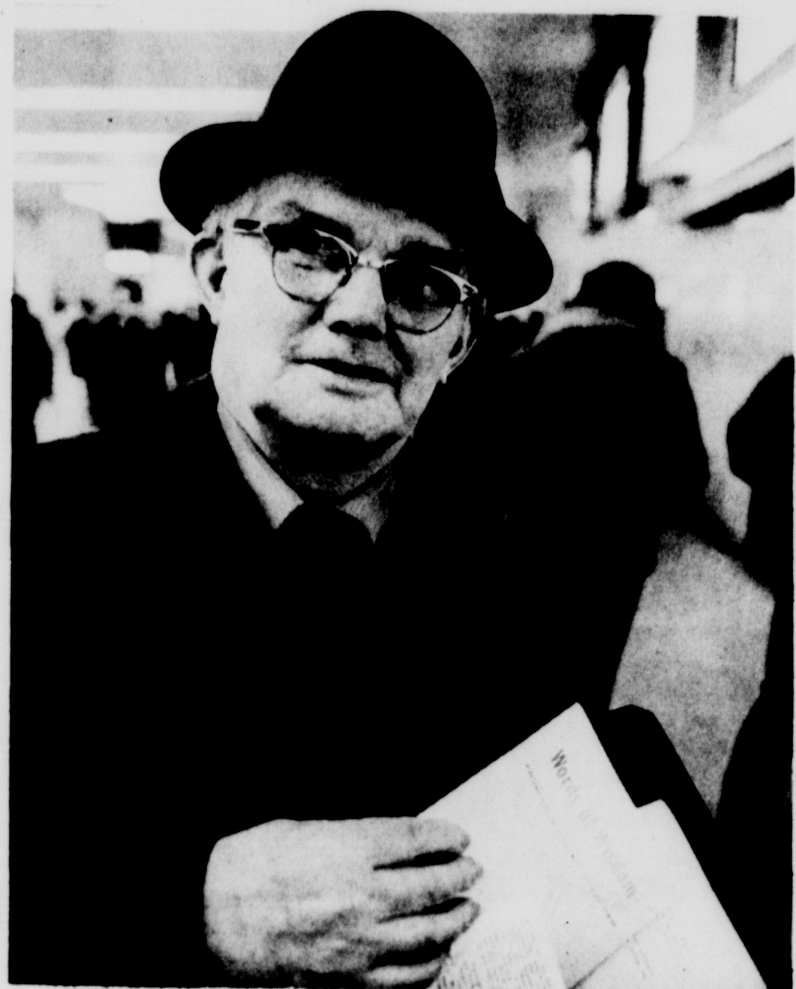

Even when the health department

Gives it away free. Even when it's given To promote tranquility. All drug use is body abuse When used in the live bod-ee."

"Legalize your right to get high!"

"Greyhound to Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford and Boston, loading gate 16; Greyhound to Baltimore, Washington, Roanoke, Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis, loading Gate 36."

"I don't pay attention to any of it," says Willie Gainey, who runs the news stand.

Free Words of Wisdom

Former hillbilly entertainer Earl Powell, 64, takes a copy of his booklet "Words of Wisdom from your Street Preacher" from his travel case to show a visitor at the Port of New York Authority bus terminal. Powell stops by the terminal several days a week to chat with other terminal "free speakers" and to help his friend Jim Houston hand out religious tracts. (AP)

Across the concourse: "Black Panther party news here! Latest publication of the Black Panther party! Talking to the oppressed people of the world. ... Diagonally, at a table loaded with books and pamphlets, an intense man in dark slacks, neatly trimmed hair, declares: "The federal government has been owned lock, stock and barrel by the Communist conspiracy for the past five or six years. One-hundred per cent of all your taxing and spending programs are Communist controlled. The Pentagon in particular is in enemy hands. ...

Two young women, blacks, both with Afros, distribute the Black Panther party newspaper. They left them by the armload from five shopping bags on the floor around a square pillar painted marble. A crowd pours from the escalators, and where the last descending stair folds into the floor, the Afroed girls wade in.

"Black Panther paper there, brother?" One of the Panthers, in a green sweater, disappears

Opening lead—♥K

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In the early days of contract, the most successful players didn't bother with grand slams. Bidding was in its early development and they were satisfied to collect the small-slam bonus.

Today, they have learned to bid grand slams and, of course, Blackwood is one of their grand-slam tools.

Sometimes the Blackwood bidder can go right to seven after finding out that his side holds all four aces. On other occasions, he rebids to five no-trump. This bid asks partner to tell him how many kings he holds.

Strangely enough, this is not the chief value of the Blackwood five no-trump. Its chief value is that it tells partner that the side does hold all four aces. On many occasions, this information will enable partner to bid seven.

Today's hand is a good example. South intends to bid at least six spades after his partner's jump raise to game. He uses Blackwood as a start toward a possible grand-slam contract.

His partner responds five diamonds just as South expected he would and South bids five no-trump. South intends to bid seven if North shows all four kings, but South doesn't expect that to happen.

It doesn't! North has just two kings, but North doesn't care. The fact that South has announced the other three aces is enough for North. He can see 13 easy tricks and bids the grand slam himself.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Fish Involved in Unwitting Conspiracy

In Danger

The Pacific salmon fights for life each year as it makes its way to spawn up wild and difficult rivers such as the Willamette in Oregon, pictured here. Now this fine game and food fish, and its cousin the steelhead trout, are faced

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—An unwitting conspiracy between nature and modern technology is threatening the Pacific salmon and its cousin, the steelhead trout, with extinction.

But man, aroused over the threat of loss of two of his finest game and food fish, is taking corrective steps in an effort to return the salmon and steelhead to their former abundance.

The problem is nitrogen supersaturation. It occurs when water crashing over the spillway of a dam traps air and forces it deep below the surface of the pool below.

The greater pressures deep below the surface of a dam pool force nitrogen into solutions measured up to 42 per cent above normal.

Fish biologists say nitrogen solutions over 10 per cent above normal can injure a fish and those more than 25 per cent above normal are usually fatal.

This is gas bubble disease, a condition akin to the bends. In 1971 it killed 90 per cent of the salmon and steelhead runs in the Columbia River and its tributaries, by estimation of the National Marine Fisheries Service. This year it could be even greater.

The more water that flows over dam spillways, the more nitrogen is supersaturated. And the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says the runoff from the melting snow this spring may be the highest in the Columbia Basin in 78 years.

Nitrogen supersaturation occurs naturally at the base of high waterfalls. But it dissipates as the water is aerated in the churning currents of a natural riverbed.

But the waters of the Columbia system—through Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia—no longer run free. Dozens of generating dams have converted them to a string of slack water lakes.

Instead of dissipating, supersaturated nitrogen increases in concentration as each dam in the downstream progression adds its share. And when the water finally crashes over Bonneville Dam on the lower Columbia and begins its slow, lackluster run to the Pacific, the nitrogen concentration is high enough to kill practically every fish in the river. Which is what fish biologists say is happening today.

The salmon and steelhead could avoid gas bubble disease by making a permanent home in the upper Columbia tributaries where most are born, and staying clear of the dams.

But nature had other plans for them.

From the moment it hatches on the gravel bar of some sparkling stream hundreds, even thousands, of miles from the Pacific, a salmon has but one driving urge: to reach the sea. Then, after an average of two years in the ocean, and assuming it escapes an early end in some cannery, a deeper, more mature instinct takes hold: the urge to reproduce. Not to reproduce just anywhere, but in the same stream, on the same gravel bar, of its birth. And it spends the rest of its life going home.

Man provided for the migrating instincts of the salmon and steelhead with fish ladders at most dams—underwater stairways that give the fish a detour around the dam on its way to and from the sea.

Provision of the fish ladders was not entirely unselfish. Without them, dams would completely block migrations and the fish would quickly have been wiped out. And the annual value of the commercial and recreational catch of salmon and steelhead in the Columbia River system is estimated by federal agencies at $25 million.

But nobody was fully aware of the magnitude of the nitrogen supersaturation problem until the late 1960s, when the National Marine Fisheries Service began keeping close tabs on fish mortality rates. It found that without quick and drastic remedial action, the salmon and steelhead would soon be gone.

Out of that grew a storm of public outrage, particularly from sports and conservation groups. And with it emerged a villain: the Corps of Army Engineers, which built and operates most of the Columbia Basin dams.

The Corps, under increasing public pressure now has launched a three-prong attack on nitrogen supersaturation that today offers real hope for a solution.

First of all began to regulate river flows, holding water high in the Columbia system so a minimum would be going over the dams during the peak fish migrations of spring and fall.

It designed a slotted bulkhead which, fitted into a dam spillway like a giant injector razor, allows water to flow through rather than over the dam.

And it designed a concrete deflector called a "flip lip", which, installed at the base of a spillway, forces cascading water outward, keeping it near the surface rather than allowing it to plunge deep where supersaturation would occur.

The aim of all this is to hold nitrogen saturation as close as possible to the normal rate. But how close is close enough?

Federal agencies contend that a saturation limit 10 per cent above normal would be sufficient. And Washington and Idaho have adopted that as a goal. The Oregon Environmental Quality Commission has set Oregon's limit at 5 per cent above normal.

Until remedial measures can be fully evaluated and put into operation, however, such limits are largely academic. The outlook, depending upon who is talking, ranges from skeptical to optimistic.

War Dads, Auxiliary In Meeting

Representatives and deputies for the new Veterans Administration Hospital in Columbia were appointed at a meeting of the State Council of the American War Dads in Jefferson City Sunday and Monday. Edmond Bryant, Cole Camp, state vice-president and president of the local chapter, presided over the session.

Mrs. Gertrude Samuels, 1709 South Stewart, state president of the women's auxiliary, presided over its meeting, held the same two days.

Both groups made plans for the state convention in Jefferson City Aug. 18-20. Mrs. Lilly Trace, Kansas City, past national president for the auxiliary, presented a draft of the new state constitution and by-laws to be presented to the National Council for certification before printing.

C. Brent Samuels, 1709 South Stewart, was named a representative and George King, Vandalia, was named a deputy for the new V.A. hospital. Mrs. Samuels named Mrs. Goldie Kennett, Fulton, and Mrs. Mary Bryant, Sedalia, as representative and deputy, respectively, for the auxiliary. Samuels is past-national president and Mrs. Bryant is president of the local auxiliary.

Water Controls Growth

WINTHROP, Wash. (AP)—If you're a rainbow trout at the U.S. hatchery here you need a sweater, but down river at Wells Dam it's bikini weather for the steelhead and salmon.

The reason is that fisheries experts are lowering and raising water temperatures in order to control growth. The goal is to keep fishermen happy by supplying them with plenty of fish of the right size at the right time.

The refrigeration system at the Winthrop National Fish Hatchery will drop the temperature of the water in which rainbow eggs lie to 38 degrees from about 47. Cooler water slows down the metabolism of the eggs so they will hatch later.

Tom Sheldrake, assistant manager of the hatchery, said state and federal hatcheries which the Winthrop facility supplies have asked for delivery of eggs that will assure eight-inch fish at specified times.

The refrigeration process enables the hatchery to delay the fish from reaching the release stage by 90 days, Sheldrake said.

Egg-taking from the adult fish in the outdoor holding ponds starts in January and generally runs through March, Sheldrake said. The fish usually reach the eight-inch size in 14 to 15 months.

The first batches—about 750-

000 eggs—are retained here, some to be released as fingerlings in Indian Reservation lakes and streams, others to be planted as eight-inchers in Methow Valley streams.

Another five million eggs are used to meet the needs of other states and hatcheries overseas. These are the ones to be refrigerated.

The refrigeration system to delay egg-hatching will be much cheaper than delaying actual fish growth by cooling the water in the holding ponds, Sheldrake said.

Meanwhile, at Wells Dam they're warming up the water so the salmon and steelhead eggs will hatch about the same time.

Offshore Platforms Home For Oil Hunters

SHELL RIG 12, Gulf of Mexico (AP)—An offshore oil platform is a nice place to visit, but a lot of people wouldn't want to live there.

However, some of the 1,800 platforms sprinkled off the coast of Louisiana are part time thousands of men who make their living tapping the rich oil and gas reserves of the Outer Continental Shelf.

If they count the days they work, it comes to a vacation every other week. If they count the hours, it's two weeks of hard work crammed into one.

While an 84-hour work week doesn't leave much time for life's pleasures, the men who live on these platforms don't often complain.

The food is good and plentiful, the beds are soft, and the living quarters are air conditioned.

On the day of a recent tour, J.P. Rouly, who is Shell Rig 12's foreman, led the way down the stairs of the huge rig.

"You'll probably be more comfortable if you don't look down much until you get used to it," he said, heading down the steel-grate steps, slung over the side of the platform so they hung suspended 387 feet above deep blue, shark-infested Gulf waters.

On the drilling floor, where the main business of the rig is under way, a small crew of three or four men pull pipe from a well recently completed. They stand the 90-foot-lengths on end in one corner.

A derrickman high above uses rope to secure the tops of the sections to a metal grid until they are ready to be dropped back into the hole.

This time the pipe has pushed a device 12,000 feet into the Gulf floor and concrete was pumped down to shore up a loose well wall.

The pipe is removed and the concrete allowed to dry before the next step is taken in putting the well into production.

This is what the multi-million dollar platform with its crew of 40 is all about—a six-inch hole snaking its way far beneath the floor of the Gulf in search of enough oil to pay for the expense of finding it and to show a profit for thousands of stockholders.

Eighteen per cent of the free world's oil supply is produced from offshore wells around the world, a goodly portion of it from these platforms off the Louisiana coast.

A couple of levels below the drilling floor are a long line of yellow pipes where oil and gas from already producing wells gush through a complicated series of pipes and valves until it reaches a common pipe duct headed for shore.

"This is a good one," says Rouly, wrapping his hand around one of the yellows with a broad grin. "This is our money-maker. This is what it's all about."

An engineer explains that the pipe from a gas well is cool to the touch and an oil well warm. The deeper and better the well, the hotter the oil flowing from it.

The one Rouly is touching is so hot he can hold it only a few seconds.

From here, the oil travels in a huge pipe to a control platform a few miles toward shore where a large computer controls the oil and gas output from several surrounding production platforms.

There's an inherent potential for danger on an oil rig because it sits atop millions of gallons of highly explosive oil and gas.

Rouly takes great pride in showing off the red and white escape capsules suspended at either end of the platform in case the crew has to leave quickly, or in rough weather.

They resemble Apollo space capsules, with escape hatches on top and a row of portholes dotting the sides. Each one is fireproof and can carry 28 men strapped onto moulded plastic benches inside.

The capsules are designed to be watertight and unsinkable in any weather. They have a small motor and a short wave radio.

Six o'clock and Thursdays are significant here. The men begin their work shifts Thursday and end them Thursday, begin their days at 6 a.m. or 6 p.m. and end them 12 hours later.

They earn from $200 to $280 a week, slightly more than their counterparts on shore. Their room and board is furnished and the fishing is often good.

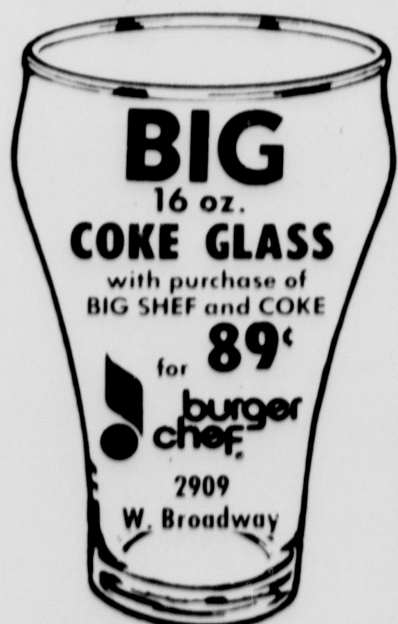

FROM THE SEDALIA WATER DEPT.

In order to provide better service to our customers, our employees will be flushing and inspecting the fire hydrants.

This work will be completed within the next four weeks. During this period, if your water appears cloudy we would suggest that you postpone any laundry. Also, during this period you may notice a drop in pressure. After the Department has finished flushing the hydrants, it would be our recommendation that you drain and flush your hot water heater.

We will complete this work as soon as possible and ask your cooperation during this period.

THANK YOU,
Sedalia Water Dept.
